WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Important changes in fundamental New Deal policy are recorded today by the government's first Ford car since NRA and ordered that work relief payments be at the prevailing local for similar work.

Mindful of the current effort to persuade business that it can proceed safely on its own, the capital pondered to the implications of a speech by Donald Richberg, president of the recovery co-ordinator, smoothing down some of the rough, unpleasant edges of the labor board's house decision.

At the same time, and in the same connection, it was thinking, also, of the latest labor board ruling, plainly indicating that the board has no idea of indulging organized labor's view that company unions are necessarily bad, and should be excluded from halls by workers select their representatives for collective bargaining.

Complaint From Georgia.
From several sections, and especially from Georgia have come criticisms of the fact that on state relief projects financed with federal funds, the workers had to be paid 20 cents an hour, in numerous instances, it was argued, less well paid laborers left private employment to go on the work relief rolls.

Governor Talmadge, Georgia, had several times asserted the rate was too high. For this, he was denounced some months ago by Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator. Hopkins today ordered the change in policy. It was recalled that Talmadge conferred this week with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs.

Payments Unaffected.
The effect of the ruling, relief administrator officials said, would be to reduce the total weekly payments to those on the work relief rolls. If the local rate is lower than 20 cents an hour, they will work additional time to keep the weekly pay unchanged. Likewise, total payments were not expected to be changed.

NRA is about to be extensively revamped and whether the Ford purchase was indicative of any phase of the new set up was a subject of much conjecture. Some unofficial quarters forecast the transaction as forecasting the official death of the Blue Eagle symbol of code compliance.

May Be Test Case.
Henry Ford has never signed an automobile manufacturers' code compliance certificate. A presidential executive order forbidding the government purchase of the products of non-complying companies still stands, although Comptroller General McCarl has questioned it.

The car in question, however, was bought from a dealer in near-by Maryland. He is operating under the dealer's code. On the theory that the car was his property, the interior department purchased it. The transaction may become a test case.

Departmental officials said no new ruling by McCarl was involved; that the machine was bought under a previous decision in which he said that the machine was a subject of much conjecture.

PAY SCALE CHANGE

Substitution of "Prevailing Wage" Plan Eliminates Chief Fault to Relief Set-Up, He Says.

Substitution of the "prevailing wage scale" for the 30 cents an hour minimum for relief workers eliminates the chief, if not the only fault, with the federal relief set-up, Governor Eugene Talmadge, the principal advocate of the new plan, said Thursday when he advised that Administrator Harry L. Hopkins had ordered a revision in the scale.

"If the same thing is done with the NRA scale and the pay scales on other government jobs, general recovery will be spurred," the governor said.

Governor Talmadge added a prediction that the revised scale for relief workers would reduce the number on relief rolls "because they will not find working on the relief more attractive than a job with private industry."

In many of recent speeches the governor had advocated the "prevailing wage scale" as the pay for relief workers and more than a year ago engaged in a controversy with Administrator Hopkins about the matter.

Governor Talmadge even went so far as to write a letter to President Roosevelt outlining his belief that if the relief pay scale was less attractive to the unemployed they might obtain other jobs or take the relief work as a last resort.

The governor first took the scale matter up with Alan Johnston at that time field representative of Administrator Hopkins in the southeast. He checked the matter up to Mr. Hopkins who refused to uphold the governor's position, which was backed by the relief board serving the state at the time. Then the governor went directly to the president who supported Mr. Hopkins' decision, a decision which eventually resulted in the dismissal of the board and the placing of entire control in the hands of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, as relief administrator.

Upheld President's Motives.
The governor often has said that he believed the president's motives were of the highest and held to the belief that when Mr. Roosevelt realized the futility of paying more for public

YUGOSLAVS CLAIM

Czechoslovakia, Ruma-

fore League Council.

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Yugoslavia, stoutly backed by four other nations, today officially charged Hungary with "complicity" in the murders at Marseille.

A stoutly worded letter M. Folic, Yugoslav delegate to the League of Nations, sent to J. A. C. Avenol, League secretary general, asked the League council to investigate terrorist activities "troubling the peace of central Europe" which culminated with the assassination of the Slavs' king, Alexander, last month.

Czechoslovakia and Rumania, Yugoslavia's sister members of the potent Little Entente, sent similar letters to Avenol, supporting the Yugoslav stand, while officials of Greece and Turkey, Yugoslavia's Balkan neighbors, expressed sympathy.

Reply Prepared.
The council was expected to argue the explosive question in January. Meanwhile, Hungarian delegates to the League began preparing their reply. Yugoslav officials, commenting on the day's sensational development, said the Slav public demanded that a step be taken.

"We prefer to settle the matter through the League instead of sending an army to the Hungarian frontier," they said.

The complaint continued: "The odious crimes at Marseille stunned civilized people and they are of such nature as to disturb the good relations between Yugoslavia and her neighbor, Hungary."

"The investigations after the assassinations show the criminal acts were organized and executed with the participation of terrorist elements in Hungary. . . and it was only with the complicity of certain Hungarian authorities that the odious act of Marseille was perpetrated."

Government Menaced.
"If the best servants of a nation and the firmest pillars of its constitution are to be killed while accomplishing their duty by organized criminals who enjoy the facilities and the support of the authorities of a foreign country, organized government would be no longer possible."

It was further stated that "the facilities and protection which criminals have in Hungary are almost unbelievable" and "an epoch of anarchy and international barbarity would begin in the civilized world if such things were permitted."

The inquiry reveals in particularly graphic fashion the responsibility of Hungarian authorities for the aid accorded the terrorist activities of certain Yugoslav subjects," the letter continued.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A warning to democrats not to be "seduced" by their newly-won power if they do not want the electorate to throw them out as they did the republicans two years ago was issued today by Senator Morris, Nebraska Republican.

Recently returned from another constitutional revision campaign in his own state, the veteran legislator said in an interview he didn't care whether the republican party was "going out of existence or not," but he did see a continuation of the "gradual drift toward eradication of party government."

Norris said he thought the country "for a great many years had been gradually drifting toward eradication of party lines and the people are not as partisan as they used to be."

Carcass of Sea Monster Found on Pacific Coast
Skin Like Sandpaper, Covered With Hair and Quills, Head Like Horse, Flesh Like Mammal.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Amid the "I told you so" remarks of persons who in recent years had reported seeing enormous serpents coasting in the Pacific hereabouts, scientists sought today to restore to its original appearance the emaciated carcass of a strange monster found by a fisherman.

The creature apparently had been about 30 feet long, with a skin like sandpaper, a head resembling that of a horse and a body partly covered by hair and partly by spines or quills.

Scientific classifications indicated the creature might have resembled the ichthyosaurus or the pterosaurs, an order of extinct marine creatures known to have existed in the Mesozoic age, when animal life on earth supposedly progressed from fishes to reptiles.

The monster, discovered by H. Sunderstrom, a fisherman, appeared after a long series of reports by fishermen, ship captains and others that three sea serpents had been seen along the Pacific coast many times in the last two years.

Dr. Neal Carter, director of the Dominion Fisheries Experimental station, brought the carcass here. He said the creature had been dead about two months.

His description of the remains was exactly like that of several persons who reported seeing a swimming sea serpent in the Jordan river shortly after last Easter.

"In life it must have been slender and sinewy," said Dr. Carter. "The remains were lying on the beach of Henry Island, which is north of Vancouver Island. Possibly it was left stranded in the inlet, trapped by the rocks when the tide went down; it might have fled there to escape some unknown enemy, or have gone there to die of old age."

"Sengula had been feeding upon the flesh, and about all that was left was skin, sinew, hair and quills, and somewhat elevated backbone."

Dr. Carter said there probably were no bones, except the backbone. The flesh clinging to it was red, which he said was the color of decomposing material. He expressed the opinion it was a deep-sea dweller, but the advanced state of decomposition made it difficult to determine whether it had been round or flat.

The only evidences of external appendages were four fins or flappers, like projections of cartilaginous material about four feet long, one pair about four feet from the head, another about 20 feet lower. Only two of the fins remained attached.

COLD WAVE HEADS TOWARD ATLANTA

Mercury Will Drop to 35 Today; Rains Cause Six Deaths in U. S.

Clouds will break up in Atlanta today and the mercury will start a two or three-day drop, according to Forecaster George W. Mindling. A shift from southerly to westerly and northerly winds is given as the cause of the change.

Temperature today is expected to range between 35 and 55 degrees, with cold weather for a while but with wet weather for a while but we will have some of the cold variety to take our attention.

Low pressure areas in the middle portion of the country conflicting with high pressure in the New England region was given as one cause for tumultuous winds and unsettled weather conditions over the eastern part of the United States.

Recent heavy rains were blamed for six deaths in the United States this week. One negro was found dead in a water-filled ravine near Camp Hill, after a heavy rain in that section.

View blurred by rain was given as the cause for a truck and train crash near Lee's Summit, Mo., in which four were killed, and for a motor car crash in Joplin, Mo., in which another person was killed.

Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Mississippi felt the effects of the rainstorms, with property damage running high.

A sea-going barge was grounded off Panama City with 45 men aboard. Coast guardsmen were rushed to the rescue through heavy seas.

DEBT AGREEMENT

Significant Hint Dropped by State Department as Bankers Meet Under
Robert Maddox.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—An influential group of private bankers, gathered here to map ways and means of spurring foreign trade today were told by the state department to prepare to take advantage of trade opportunities that a debt settlement with Russia might bring.

Considerable significance was attached to this word from R. Walton Moore, assistant secretary of state, because of his familiarity with the obstacles which have prevented an agreement with the soviet state on the claims this country presented after recognition.

One of those who heard him today felt that the state department's official plainly hinted that an understanding was in sight.

Secret Meeting.
His audience was the bankers' advisory committee recently named to co-operate with export-import bank officials on methods of expanding American's diminishing foreign trade. The meeting was held behind closed doors.

The first export-import bank, headed by George N. Peek, was set up after recognition of the soviet state for the express purpose of promoting trade with that country. It was capitalized at $11,000,000 in federal funds. The bank's officers, however, decided to do a debt settlement. So far that settlement has not been reached and the delay has had a depressing effect on trade between the two countries.

Peek and other export-import officials, conferred most of the day with the bankers on ways for better co-operation between the two governments to continue trade and private credit agencies.

Headed by Maddox.
The bankers' advisory committee was headed by Robert P. Maddox, director of the First National bank, of Atlanta. Joseph C. Rovensky, vice president of the Chase National bank, of New York, is chairman, and Fred I. Kent, director of the Bankers' Trust Company, of New York, is chief consultant. About 10 other prominent bankers are members of the committee.

The result of the discussion today was the decision to name a group of representatives which would keep in touch with Peek and his aids in form a clearing house for information on specific proposals for foreign deals.

The conference today did not embrace differences over the best means to stimulate exports. Peek was asked about reports that he and Hull are in strong disagreement over policy in America's drive to recapture markets abroad. He laughed and said he had no comment.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A 31-year-old chauffeur's confession that he battered his woman employer's skull with an automobile key and propped her body against a tree at near-by Laurel lake because she refused to give him $10 to buy liquor, was claimed by police today as the solution of the four-day-old mystery of the slain "woman in black."

The chauffeur, George Pettit, Jr., of City View Heights, near National park, admitted the slaying, Police Lieutenant Richard Haines said, while in several hours of identification of the woman's body as that of his employer and neighbor, Mrs. Mathilda McGee, 55.

Relationship of U. S.
Farm Policies With International Markets Is Discussed With F. D. R.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 22.—(UP)—Administration farm policies and their relationship with world markets were explored thoroughly today by President Roosevelt in an unscheduled conference with Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, No. 1 "braintrust" and undersecretary of agriculture.

The youthful Tugwell, fresh from the international institute of agriculture in Rome, a season devoted to consideration of world agrarian problems, was expected to remain here through tomorrow for a continuation of the discussion with Mr. Roosevelt.

The presence of Tugwell at the Little White House served to dispel rumors that he was "out of the New Deal picture." Those reports began when he left the United States in the middle of the political campaign to participate in the Rome conference.

Invited to Warm Springs.
Mr. Roosevelt invited him to Warm Springs, presumably anxious to hear his views on the broad agricultural picture, come here, with the new farm legislation would result, it could not be learned.

Tugwell was the only caller on today's list and began his discussion with the president soon after the latter breakfasted and skimmed through 24 hours' accumulation of mail.

For the second time in a row, showers kept the president indoors except for a motor ride to the Warm Springs pool, where he went for a swim and a break round golf.

With the farm discussions out of the way Mr. Roosevelt was expected to turn again to the study of greater coordination of government activities, a subject that he has been devoting considerable attention to, and the general legislative program and budgetary matters.

Will Meet Sen. Robinson.
He will review the legislative situation fully next week when Senator Joe T. Robinson, democratic majority leader, comes here, with the possibility that conclusions will be reached to enable him to work out the rough draft of his recommendations to the new congress.

During his Warm Springs stay the president in all likelihood will see Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, to talk over the 1935 relief figures he intends to incorporate in the budget message and also to map out certain changes that advisers feel will be made in the government's relief program.

Mrs. Mary Pearl Koester was acquitted of the murder of George E. King Jr. Thursday afternoon by a jury in Fulton county superior court after three hours' deliberations.

The verdict was brought in and read at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Koester had been on trial for several days charged by the state with shooting King to death October 14 in the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Scott Vance, who was engaged to marry King.

Cheering broke out in one section of the courtroom when the verdict was read by the foreman and the demonstration brought a severe rebuke from Judge G. H. Howard, who said the conduct of the audience was "improper, unseemly and almost shameful."

Friends Elated.
Friends and relatives of the freed woman ran to her side and congratulated her. She laughed gaily and shook their hands.

Mrs. Koester told the jury in her unwavering statement that she was not the person who shot King. She said she was worried over her sister's relations with the man she shot. She said both she and Mrs. Nancy, who was killed while seated at the breakfast table one Sunday morning in Mrs. Koester's home, where he was a boarder, Mrs. Koester's attorney, E. A. Allen, pleaded "at his client was insane at the moment of the shooting, and she also argued the Georgia law which holds a person justified in slaying in defense of the honor of a brother or sister."

The state prosecutor, Mrs. Koester on the grounds she shot King, who was a member of a prominent family here, for the sake of a woman, said that she was a member of the same family. Mrs. Koester's husband, who was a member of the same family, was killed while seated at the breakfast table one Sunday morning in Mrs. Koester's home, where he was a boarder, Mrs. Koester's attorney, E. Soul of Grasshopper
Said Photographed

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(UP)—The soul of a dying grasshopper has been photographed to the satisfaction of the Society for Psychical Research.

Dr. A. Watters, of Reno, Nev., assisted by medical men from Johns Hopkins University, took the picture in the course of some experiments.

"It was an accident," said Frederick Bligh Bond, of the Psychical Research Society. "The photograph showed an ethereal body hovering over the body of the dying insect."

"The insect, when about to die, was placed in a tube filled with gas. The whole thing was photographed, and at the moment of death some sort of smaller body was seen to pass out of the actual body and remain suspended over it. It had much the form of the insect."

The "soul" apparently dissipated itself within a few seconds after the death of the grasshopper. Bond thought it was some sort of electrical manifestation.

BAPTISTS TO SEE FILM OF BERLIN CONFERENCE

Atlanta Baptists tonight will see the first showing here of a motion picture of the recent Baptist World Alliance in Berlin. The picture will be shown at the Druid Hills Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock, under the direction of Edwin E. Preston, state secretary of the Baptist Young People of Georgia.

The picture presents many interesting details, including numerous scenes in the auditorium in Berlin during sessions of the alliance, groups of world leaders in various settings in Berlin, London and other European cities in which Baptists have centered their activities; historic shrines in England and Germany where Baptist movements began, and similar incidents to lend charm and interest to the picture. Several spectacular views of the ocean are used in giving variety to the picture, these "shots" having been made by Mr. Preston en route to Berlin and returning.

An interesting program of vocal and orchestral music has been arranged by Parks Warnock, director of the work of the young people at Druid Hills. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the program at Druid Hills tonight. There will be no admission charge.

REMEMBER this about Domino Sugars. They are pure cane—free from dirt and impurities because they are packed in sturdy cartons or strong cotton bags. They never disappoint in cooking—they always are welcome at the table. Convenient to buy and use. Don't experiment with unbranded "bar-gains" in sugar. Buy Domino and be sure.

SHELTER-BELT PLANS DISRUPTED BY STRIFE

Division of Views Among Forestry Bodies Threat- ens Program.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—The merits of the plan to belt the country's mid-section with a 100-mile-wide strip of trees was disclosed today to have brewed an undercover fight among foresters that may break into the open before the matter goes to congress.

Through the middle west studies are being made upon which the forest service will base its recommendations to President Roosevelt for transmission to congress. These studies involve soil, climatic and other factors which will effect the growth of trees.

F. A. Silcox, the chief forester, said the service was prepared to go ahead with the plan when provided with the approximately $75,000,000 it would cost. One million dollars was allowed for the study.

In the meantime, however, widely varying opinions have been expressed by members of the various forestry associations which some of those familiar with the course of the project expect to see head up into a heated discussion at the January meeting of the Society of American Foresters.

H. H. Chapman, president of the society, has expressed the opinion that the idea is fantastically impos-

Politics, Economics Team-Mates, Asserts Neely in Talk to Ad Club

Members of the Atlanta Advertising Club listened Thursday with unflinching interest to a talk by Frank H. Neely, general manager of Rich's.

While Mr. Neely gave his address no caption, it was divided into two distinct but interrelated themes. The first had to do with changed and changing conditions in politics and economics, and the second related to the more-than-ever pressing need to make underlying character measure up to a reputation for integrity.

There are business men who deride the interest which some of their conferees are taking in politics, said Mr. Neely. However, in his opinion, there was an urgent need for business to be alert and interested in all phases of government.

"The days that led to the 1929 calamity are gone," said Mr. Neely. "There is no prospect that any of us will find one business doubling and quadrupling as it did in the lam-entable period that proved a precipitous descent into the late depression. All of us may as well realize now that things have changed permanently. And it is fortunate that the nation has a leader like Franklin D. Roosevelt who is not only aware of the nation's needs but has the strength and courage to initiate legislation remedial in its effect."

"When Mr. Roosevelt took office he found that politics and economics at odds in their efforts to bring order out of chaos. The two must pull together if government of a type beneficial to all the people is to be effected."

"Under these changed conditions,"

Walter Mulford, of the University of California, a former president, has said the plantings had small chance of success and recorded "grave misgivings" as to the plan.

DIFFERENT SUGARS
HAVE CERTAIN USES

"A place for everything and everything in its place." How often mothers have to remind children of this familiar household saying. But mothers can well be reminded of it in their use of sugar in the kitchen and on the table. So many housewives can get even better results in their cooking and serving by selecting the proper sugar for the particular requirement. The two types of sugar most generally confused are Domino confectioners' and Domino superfine powdered. Confectioners' sugar is a wonderful time-saver for making delicious icings and frosting without cooking, but is not suited to sweetening cold drinks, fresh fruits and hot or dry cereals. Confectioners' sugar is much too fine for these uses. It clouds cold beverages and forms a sort of paste on fruits and cereals.

In contrast to confectioners', however, superfine powdered sugar is ideal for just such uses. It is of a grain which is coarser than confectioners' but much finer than granulated. Domino superfine powdered dissolves instantly in cold drinks or hot chocolate and cocoa. It blends perfectly with milk or cream on cereals and when sprinkled over fresh fruits brings out their flavors to the fullest degree.

B. M. T. IS ORDERED TO REINSTATE 20

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—The labor relations board today ordered the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation to reinstate 20 employees the board found has been discharged for union activity.

IRREGULARITIES SHOWN IN BUYING OF VESSELS

U. S. Ships Sold for Lower Bid, Testimony at Mail Inquiry Charges.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—The 12 vessels purchased by the Mississippi Shipping Company, of New Orleans, from the United States shipping board, on which they based their claim for an ocean mail contract, were shown in evidence today at a post-office department hearing to have been obtained after private negotiations.

P. J. Connolly, government counsel, submitted evidence showing that the Munson Steamship Line bid $2,886,672 for the vessels against the Mississippi Shipping Company bid of $1,155,288.

Testimony showed the shipping board rejected all bids and then awarded the sale to the Mississippi line at a price slightly higher than the bid of the Munson line.

Although the Mississippi Shipping Company contended it could not successfully operate the vessels unless it obtained the mail contract, which it held had been assured it would receive after buying the vessels, government counsel brought out that the company operated with the ships for a year and a quarter, prior to obtaining the mail contract, at a profit of $172,629.

CLUB GROUP SPONSORS EXHIBIT OF WILD LIFE

The Atlanta Woman's Club will sponsor the exhibit of Georgia game and wild life today in the display windows of Parks-Chambers at 37 Peachtree street, and the Girl Scouts will be the sponsors Saturday. Sponsors earlier this week were Camp Fire Girls on Monday, Fifth District Federation of Women's Clubs on Tuesday, the Georgia Democratic Woman's Club on Wednesday and the humane education department of the Fifth District P. T. A. Council on Thursday.

The display was part of the Georgia exhibit at the Century of Progress, Mrs. Katherine Connerat is chairman of the general committee in charge.

George Smith, postal inspector, was asked by Connolly, what value he considered the route. Smith testified that he considered the route of "comparatively little value."

New Deal Loan Repaid By Sylvester Harris

WEST POINT, Miss., Nov. 22. (UP)—Sylvester Harris has demonstrated again that he was a good investment for the New Deal.

The Lowndes county negro "phoned the president" last spring to get a government loan to save his mortgaged farm. Today, T. A. Jenkins, field inspector of government seed loans, said Sylvester had repaid the $50 lent to him on instructions from the White House.

He also kept his promise to Mr. Roosevelt to send a turkey for Thanksgiving, and has already shipped the choicest bird of his flock.

I saw one was in the oak forest at the base of Stone Mountain.

Yellow Warbler.

The yellow warbler is an easy species to remember in that he is exactly what the names imply. The male bird is brilliant yellow, with an orange cast, over the entire head and upper parts. His female is almost exactly the same, except that her tones are more truly yellow. There is one distinct difference in the two and that is in the striping of the breast. The male carries definite reddish brown streaks which are but faintly indicated in the female bird.

While I do not know that the yellow warbler nests in Georgia, even in the mountains, I want to say something about the last nest I saw. It was five years ago in Michigan that I found it, in the edge of an alder swamp, where rails were playing hide-and-go-seek with the members of the ornithology class. The yellow warbler was known to nest in that region and therefore I sought diligently. My search ended about eight inches from the ground in a small branching willow. The nest was cleverly woven onto the plant, but sad to say, it was parasitized with one of the huge eggs of the cowbird, which never makes a nest of its own. I have seen yellow warbler nests that were built in three stories because of cowbird eggs in the first two.

REGULAR ADVERTISING BOOSTS TRUCK SELLING

While calling attention to the fact that the commercial car and truck registrations for the first nine months of this year account for deliveries of $5,000 Dodge trucks, J. D. Burke, director of truck sales for Dodge Brothers Corporation, also points out that truck registrations for the period are 208.7 per cent higher than they were in the corresponding nine months of 1933.

Mr. Burke, who is here to address a meeting of Dodge dealers at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, is certain that truck business will hold up well for the remainder of the year. He deduces greater business potentialities from the realization, amply supported by current field investigations, that the present increase in truck sales does little more than scratch the surface of the demand for truck transportation that actually exists. And it is because of this conviction that Dodge truck plants are maintaining high production schedules for the final quarter of the year, to higher outputs than for any fourth quarter in the company's history.

An important factor in bringing about the 208.7 per cent increase in Dodge truck registrations is the manner in which truck buyers are accepting the new Dodge 1 1/2-ton truck chassis, which appeals to the greatest class of truck purchasers through its ability to function as basis for units that haul, with suitable adaptations, gross loads ranging from 1,600 to 12,000 pounds.

But Mr. Burke cites still another element to which he credits a fair share of the gains in Dodge truck registrations, namely Dodge truck advertising, which has been carried on consistently so far through the season, and will be continued. "Being no believer in mousetrap theories of customers besieging dealers' showrooms," Mr. Burke says "With the increase in business that we have already had and the very encouraging outlook for the balance of the year, we are sure that the market is there. The manufacturer who gives truck users what they need and want, at a price that is right, and who lets people know of it through advertising, will enjoy good business. That has been the experience of Dodge."

EX-SERGEANT FREED IN DEATH OF WIDOW

BEAVER, N. J., Nov. 22. (AP) Carlton F. Clymer, 24-year-old cafeteria worker, was acquitted by a Warren county jury today of a charge of murder in the death of Mrs. Hazel Ebner, 28-year-old Phillipsburg widow. The state had contended he suffocated her in an attempted assault. The jury was out three hours. Clymer is a former army sergeant.

THREE MEALS A DAY KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES by Sally Saver

THANKSGIVING DINNER.
Innovations in food are all very well on other days in the year—but some way, when Thanksgiving rolls around, we all expect to feast our eyes and appetites on the traditional turkey with its accompaniment of cranberries, turnips, puddings and pies. So, while menus all over the land will not be identical on this great feast day they will be successful, have certain fundamental dishes in common. Here is a menu for a typical Thanksgiving dinner:

Stuffed Celery
Green and Ripe Olives
Roast Stuffed Turkey
Holiday Salad
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Squash with Pineapple
Pumpkin Pie
American Cheese

Ma Brown's Citron Cake.
One and one-half cups of shortening, 1 1/2 cups of sugar, 8 eggs, 1 cup of water, 1 cup of molasses, 1 1/2 cups of soda, 5 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 pound finely sliced citron, 2 pounds chopped raisins.

Cream the shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add the eggs one at a time and beat thoroughly after each addition. Add the molasses in which the soda has been dissolved, and mix, then alternate the water with the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder, spices and salt. Dredge the citron and raisins with 2 tablespoons of the flour and stir into the mixture. Place in one shallow loaf pan or in two loaf pans which have been lined with heavy wax paper. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 1 hour. Cool in the pan and ice as desired.

This amount makes two cakes 12 by 12 inches and about two inches thick. The cakes keep deliciously moist.

Chicken Chowder.
One chicken, 2 to 3 pounds; 6 tablespoons shortening, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper to taste, 1 cup flour, boiling water, 1 cup diced celery, 1 1/2 cups diced raw carrots, 1 cup cooked rice.

Cut the chicken into suitable serving pieces as for frying. A stewing hen or well-developed young chicken is best. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge in flour. Put the shortening in a large pot and when hot add the flour and chicken and brown nicely on all sides. Add boiling water to cover, put the lid on the pot, and let simmer until chicken is almost dropping from the bones, about 1 1/2 hours. Lift out the bones with a fork and add the carrots and celery and cook 1-2 hour longer or until the carrots are tender. Just before serving, add the cooked rice and reheat.

Turkey Dressing.
Mix 4 cups bread crumbs (no crusts) with 2 teaspoons salt, 1 1/2 spoon pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons poultry seasoning and 4 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Moisten with 3/4 cup hot milk or broth to which 6 tablespoons melted fat have been added. Add 2 1/2 cups of finely chopped boiled chestnuts. Mix well. Dry turkey well inside. Stuff with the turkey, place in a roasting pan and roast until tender and brown.

Baked Squash with Pineapple.
Halve, remove seeds and steam 1 medium-size winter squash. Then peel and slice 1 1/4 inch thick. Arrange squash in layers in a baking dish and sprinkle each layer with bits of butter or other fat and 4 tablespoons of crushed canned pineapple. When dish is full (squash should be top layer) place in a moderate oven and bake about 1 hour.

Holiday Salad.
First Layer—1 tablespoon gelatin, 1 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup seasoned strained tomato juice.
Second Layer—1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, 1 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, 1 1/2 cup finely shredded green pepper, 1 1/2 cup finely cut celery.

Soak gelatin for the first layer in cold water 5 minutes. Add seasoned tomato juice, puree, or soup and stir until mixed. Pour into a small square pan and let until firm. Pour over this the second layer made as follows: Soak the gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Add the boiling water and stir until mixed, then season with the vinegar or lemon juice, salt and sugar. Cool the shredded cabbage, pepper and celery. Pour over the tomato-gelatin mixture. Chill until both layers are firm. Cut into squares and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Pumpkin Pie.
One quart milk, 3 cups boiled and strained pumpkin, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1 level tablespoon ginger, 1 level tablespoon cinnamon, 1 1/2 cup molasses, 4 eggs, pinch of salt, 1 level teaspoon of flour, mixed with sugar.

Mix the above ingredients and pour in pie shell lined with rich pastry. Bake until a silver knife inserted in the filling comes out clean.

Parker House Rolls.
Two cups scalded milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 6 cups flour, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 yeast cake, dissolved; 2 teaspoons lukewarm water.

Put salt, sugar and butter in bowl; pour over scalded milk, when cool add yeast and 4 cups of flour, beat thoroughly. When full of bubbles add yeast and 2 cups of flour, knead until smooth and elastic to touch. Let it rise to twice the bulk, cut down, rise again, then turn out on the board and roll out in sheet 12-inch thick, cut with pastry cutter, brush with butter, fold so the upper edge overlaps the under one, press edges together and let rise 1 hour and bake in a hot oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Certain dishes seem to "fit in" with the holiday spirit—plum puddings, mince and pumpkin pies, fine cakes and crunchy cookies. They intensify the holiday mood and give a special enjoyment to the meals they enrich. Here are some variations of the old familiar foods and some new dishes that will be appropriate to the holiday season.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.
Six cooked peeled sweet potatoes, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 1 cup water, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Cut potatoes in halves. Mix rest of ingredients and boil 4 minutes. Pour over potatoes which have been placed in a shallow pan. Bake 30 minutes.

ICKES ORDERS RESTUDY OF LA. PWA PROJECTS

Further Works Funds To Be Withheld Pending Federal Action.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. (AP)—Secretary Ickes today ordered a restudy of all public works projects in Louisiana to take into consideration debt moratorium and other legislation recently enacted by the Louisiana legislature.

He announced that no further PWA funds would be loaned to finance additional non-federal projects in the state pending completion of the inquiry.

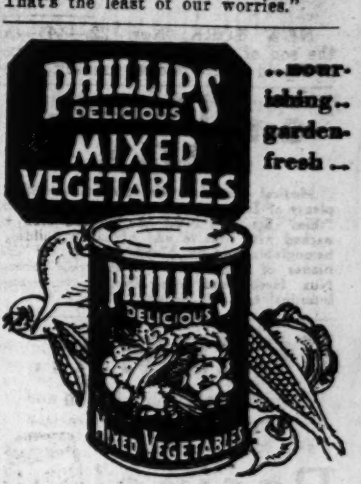

Officials said loans and grants for non-federal projects in Louisiana totaled about $14,000,000, and that projects now under construction were not affected by the re-examination. It will apply to grants made with which construction has not begun.

"We are concerned about our security and want a chance for our legal staff to make a thorough study," Ickes said.

"There is a question that if they could declare a moratorium on private debts they could on debts owed the government."

Gov. Herbert Lehman Decorated With Military Cross by U. D. C.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—As the son of a Confederate veteran and a World War veteran himself, Gov.

Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, was decorated tonight with the Cross of Military Service by the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The award was accepted by Colonel Frederick Greene, state superintendent of public works, representing the governor, who is vacationing in Florida.

Mrs. J. Sumter Rhame, custodian of crosses, in bestowing the medal, cited the record of Lehman's father in the War Between the States and read the inscription: "The brave give birth to the brave."

The presentation was made in a setting approximating a scene from the '60s. Confederate flags were prominently displayed and delegates to the convention wore the hoopskirts and bonnets of the time.

A procession of state historians of the U. D. C. bearing state flags, was led by Miss Jessica Randolph Smith, of Washington, D. C., daughter of the designer of the Stars and Bars, who carried the Confederate banner.

Other recipients of the Cross of Military Service were Lieutenant Commander D. A. J. Sullivan, U. S. N. R., Captain Arthur Bee McDaniel, assistant chief of the army air service and Dr. H. King Wade, first lieutenant in the medical corps.

History of 40 years of the U. D. C. was reviewed by Mrs. John H. Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., retiring historian general, presiding over the evening session.

"We are in an army of right-thinking women pledged to champion only those things which exalt a country. May we always remember the command of Stonewall Jackson to 'close up and press forward.'"

She read a letter from President Roosevelt in which he said: "Your organization bears witness to the truth that people ought to be remembered not for the mere attainment of their objectives but for the high qualities that mark their endeavor."

"With unsurpassed courage your ancestors fought in support of their conscientious convictions. They were Americans, the memory of whose steadfast valor and devotion is now part of the cherished heritage of our republic."

"To foster that memory is your peculiar heritage. But I ask you to share a further privilege of overwhelming importance—the service of our country today. In doing this I ask no more than the exercise of those virtues to the recollection of which the Daughters of the Confederacy are dedicated."

"We cannot doubt that Americans of the character of the men and women of the '60s united in patriotic purpose and effort can calmly face and eventually solve all the problems of this troubled time."

Lillian and Nell Britt, of Philadelphia, formerly of Georgia, presented a costume song recital of pictures of the old south.

New officers elected by the convention were Mrs. John C. Abernathy, of Chicago, Ill., second vice president; Mrs. Walter D. Lamm, of Macon, Ga., historian general, and Mrs. Norris Harris, of Baltimore, Md., registrar general. The other officers' terms expire next year.

The delegates voted to hold their 1935 convention in Hot Springs, Ark., home of the president general. Reports offered were by Mrs. L. R. Schuyler, of New York, on the Mrs. Simon Baruch university prize; Mrs. W. S. Coleman, Atlanta, Ga., on official stationery; Mrs. F. B. Harrington, Los Angeles, Cal., on transportation; Mrs. Gustave Mertins, Montgomery, Ala., on by-laws, and Mrs. Glenn Long, Newton, N. C., on the Jefferson Davis historical foundation.

Pneumonia Takes Life Of Deadly Bushmaster

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Bronx zoo's deadliest snake, the bushmaster, which Dr. Raymond L. Dittmars brought from Trinidad in September, died today.

A parasitic infection brought on pneumonia and caused the snake's death, the zoo's veterinarian said. Yesterday the bushmaster was noticed gasping, as if unable to take in enough air.

The snake, which Dr. Dittmars had sought for years, was the first of its kind on exhibition here in a quarter-century. A Panama expedition by Dr. Dittmars in 1932, in search of a bushmaster, proved unsuccessful.

Military Service were Lieutenant Commander D. A. J. Sullivan, U. S. N. R., Captain Arthur Bee McDaniel, assistant chief of the army air service and Dr. H. King Wade, first lieutenant in the medical corps.

History of 40 years of the U. D. C. was reviewed by Mrs. John H. Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., retiring historian general, presiding over the evening session.

UTILITY 'PROPAGANDA' EXPENDITURES BARED

$30,000,000 a Year Used for Advertising, Trade Body Is Told.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The federal trade commission, making another report today on what it terms "publicity and propaganda" by power and gas utilities, said they have spent as high as $30,000,000 a year for advertising.

The report, one of a series the commission is making to the senate on its six-year inquiry into utilities, dealt with the campaign conducted through the press. The next will summarize the commission's story of "propaganda" through schools and educators.

"Obviously," the report said, "the two most important opinion-making and opinion-forming media are the press and the schools. The press leads in its direct effect upon the present adult population. The schools lead in molding the opinions of coming generations."

"Accordingly, we find the most widespread and thorough planning and attention to the publicity given to these two greatest opinion-making factors. As to each, the plans were frankly stated. They were comprehensive and complete."

"When it is understood that the 'newspaper or magazine is practically a by-product of advertising (quoting a witness), and that inherently advertising expenditures therefore frequently carry a certain element of good will response from the recipients, the large total spent by utilities for advertising is relevant."

The report cited testimony to show that advertising expenditures reached as high as 25 to 30 millions dollars a year.

A utilities publicity officer was quoted as saying that, after three years of operation, there were 23 so-called newspaper bureaus "functioning in such a way that newspapers in six states are using an average of 8,500 column inches of material every month."

A year later, another utilities official said there were "32 states now functioning" and "they are getting thousands and thousands of columns of news space without cost, and getting the kind of news they want."

Germany Calls Fliers Back to the Colors

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—(UP)—General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, air minister, tonight announced he was putting his new air corps into operation with an appeal to all wartime fliers and mechanics to enlist for service as instructors to recruits.

A call was issued to all former airmen not enrolled in the Nazi air corps, and was answered affirmatively by 70 per cent of those paged. The others were expected to accede to the call shortly.

Goering plans greatly to speed up all training of Nazi fliers in the Reich's program to build up an air force capable of protecting Germany as one of her first lines of defense.

Fletcher Asks Banks' Views on Legislation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, who recently discussed banking and monetary legislation with the president, disclosed tonight that he had asked bankers their opinion on a number of major issues involving the future financial setup.

Without any instruction from the senate banking committee which he heads, Fletcher said he had sent questionnaires to a number of leading bankers asking their views as to need of additional legislation, including:

Their ideas on unification of federal and state banks into a single system, the creation of a central bank to control the issuance of currency, the taking over of the federal reserve system by the government and the nationalization of all banks.

Miss Millay Lectures At Agnes Scott Tonight

Edna St. Vincent Millay, America's outstanding woman poet, will lecture at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Agnes Scott at the college auditorium.

The poetess will read a number of her poems and will discuss contemporary poetry on her first visit to Atlanta.

She was scheduled to arrive in Atlanta late last night or this morning and tickets for her address are on sale at Davidson-Paxon's and will be tonight at the auditorium.

Mrs. W. C. Cram, 76, Passes in Washington

Mrs. W. C. Cram, mother of W. C. Cram Jr., former resident of Atlanta, died Thursday at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cram Jr., at the Broadmore apartments, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Cram was 76 years of age, and funeral services and interment will take place in Raleigh, N. C., Saturday morning. Her son resided in Atlanta several years, but is now connected with the treasury department in Washington. A sister and three grandchildren also survive her.

ROANNE, France, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A textile workers' strike against wage reductions spread today into adjoining towns until it was estimated that 7,000 were idle. The industry, which has been operating at half its normal volume, has been trying to reduce its costs in order to regain lost trade.

Other recipients of the Cross of Military Service were Lieutenant Commander D. A. J. Sullivan, U. S. N. R., Captain Arthur Bee McDaniel, assistant chief of the army air service and Dr. H. King Wade, first lieutenant in the medical corps.

History of 40 years of the U. D. C. was reviewed by Mrs. John H. Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., retiring historian general, presiding over the evening session.

"We are in an army of right-thinking women pledged to champion only those things which exalt a country. May we always remember the command of Stonewall Jackson to 'close up and press forward.'"

She read a letter from President Roosevelt in which he said: "Your organization bears witness to the truth that people ought to be remembered not for the mere attainment of their objectives but for the high qualities that mark their endeavor."

"With unsurpassed courage your ancestors fought in support of their conscientious convictions. They were Americans, the memory of whose steadfast valor and devotion is now part of the cherished heritage of our republic."

"To foster that memory is your peculiar heritage. But I ask you to share a further privilege of overwhelming importance—the service of our country today. In doing this I ask no more than the exercise of those virtues to the recollection of which the Daughters of the Confederacy are dedicated."

"We cannot doubt that Americans of the character of the men and women of the '60s united in patriotic purpose and effort can calmly face and eventually solve all the problems of this troubled time."

Lillian and Nell Britt, of Philadelphia, formerly of Georgia, presented a costume song recital of pictures of the old south.

New officers elected by the convention were Mrs. John C. Abernathy, of Chicago, Ill., second vice president; Mrs. Walter D. Lamm, of Macon, Ga., historian general, and Mrs. Norris Harris, of Baltimore, Md., registrar general. The other officers' terms expire next year.

The delegates voted to hold their 1935 convention in Hot Springs, Ark., home of the president general. Reports offered were by Mrs. L. R. Schuyler, of New York, on the Mrs. Simon Baruch university prize; Mrs. W. S. Coleman, Atlanta, Ga., on official stationery; Mrs. F. B. Harrington, Los Angeles, Cal., on transportation; Mrs. Gustave Mertins, Montgomery, Ala., on by-laws, and Mrs. Glenn Long, Newton, N. C., on the Jefferson Davis historical foundation.

THE NEW COTTON PROGRAM

The high points of the cotton control plan for 1935, announced Wednesday by officials of the AAA, are directed at strengthening the weak points of the 1934 program and the elimination of features that proved harmful. Full details of the plan are expected to be made public some time next week.

The proposed increase in payments to co-operating farmers and reduction in rental payments will serve the double purpose of remedying one of the chief faults of this year's plan, and adding to the number of co-operating growers.

Unquestionably the working of this year's plan has caused loss and hardship to some small farmers and unfairly benefited large producers. This has not been the fault of the plan alone, but of the manner in which it has been administered locally. If this objection can be eliminated, a major step will have been taken toward securing almost universal approval of cotton control by those who produce the staple.

The new plan, it is reported, will include an increase in the parity payment from one to two cents a pound and require a reduction of 25 per cent in acreage, based on the average from 1928 to 1932. Despite the plowing-up campaign in 1933, the holdover as of March 1 this year was 10,000,000 bales, the third largest on record. While the reduction program this year and the drought in the western cotton belt undoubtedly will result in a reduction of this holdover, it is certain to remain at a figure far above normal. It will certainly be so large that any addition to it from a bumper crop next year would cause prices to skyrocket downward.

Secretary Wallace in commenting upon the new plan takes cognizance of the complaints that curtailed production in America has already brought the loss of some foreign markets and that further reduction will increase these losses. He takes the position that the export losses have not been because of curtailed production but on account of reduced foreign buying power. Certainly it is difficult to understand how crop curtailment can materially affect foreign markets when there remains a surplus large enough to supply world consumption for almost a full year.

Secretary Wallace's announcement next week of the full details of the new plan will be awaited with keen interest. It is to be expected that controversy may result, as it will not be possible to evolve a plan satisfactory to all cotton interests, but it is definitely established that there will be a control plan in 1935 and that the maximum acreage reduction of 25 per cent will be enforced.

ROOSEVELT BELLS AGAIN

The approval of President Roosevelt of the suggestion that another series of nation-wide bells be held on his birthday next year, the receipts to be used in the fight against infantile paralysis, will be warmly welcomed by the people of the country.

Seldom in American history has anything so appealed to the public fancy as did the unique proposal last year that had as its objective a universal expression of the honor and respect with which an inspired leader was held by people of all political faiths, and the raising of a fund for the institution dedicated to the rehabilitation of the victims of a malady annually striking down thousands of men, women and children apparently in the bloom of health.

On the night of the president's birthday hundreds of thousands of dancers and merry-makers turned out from the snow-covered north to the balmy regions of the south and met to take part in bells held in practically every hamlet of the country—affairs that ranged in scope from magnificent formal balls in the larger cities to barn dances in rural communities. More than a million dollars was raised.

Now the president's consent has been sought and received for a repetition of these balls in 1935, the fund raised this year to go to the treatment of infantile paralysis victims in their home communities and for research work, instead, as was the case last year, into the Warm Springs endowment fund.

No fund ever raised in the United States came from events in which equal amusement and entertainment was afforded the participants. Young and old, rich and poor, city residents and country folk, the people of America danced and made merry as they had never unitedly done before.

With the experience in staging the balls gained last winter, and more time in which to plan them, this year's events should be more elaborate and entertaining and should attract a larger attendance and bigger receipts.

AN END TO THE DOLE.

The adoption of a "no work, no relief" policy by the Georgia relief administration means the early demise of the dole system of aid to the unemployed, and the placing of relief on a basis far more sound than heretofore.

While many of those on relief have been assigned to jobs of various kinds, the larger number have been maintained in idleness. As a result unpreventable evils have developed that have been harmful both to those being aided and to the communities in which they live.

Many manual laborers have quit part-time work, or refused to take it, because they could receive more from the relief centers if they were totally without employment or income. Others who have been unable to get work of any kind have been brought to desperation because they could find nothing to do in their idle hours. Still others have welcomed the idleness and have formed an aversion for work that will prove a serious stumbling block to their welfare when normal conditions return.

These evils and others of like character will be eliminated by the decision of the relief administration to make all aid payments through work paymasters, discontinuing the dole payments now being made to those for whom jobs were not found or created.

The new system will put the idle workers of America back on a working basis. It will put an end to increasing efforts of those not wanting to work to spend their time in idleness at the expense of the government, and will stop the character-destroying effects of idleness on those who want to work but can find nothing to put their hands to.

The launching of new public projects to care for the new workers is not contemplated. Rather such of the new labor as is available will be put to work on the projects under way, making it possible to speed up their completion and broaden their scope. Those now idle who are unfitted for this type of work will be assigned to the production of necessities of various kinds for the unemployed.

A hint of the approaching change in the method of extending relief was given in the recent statement of Relief Administrator Hopkins that "work is the only decent way to provide aid for the unemployed." More than that, it is the only safe way, not only for those who are aided but for the communities in which they reside.

The death knell of the dole will be welcomed in every section of the country. It will make the task of relief more difficult, and perhaps somewhat more expensive, but it will bring renewed hope and ambition to millions of unfortunate American citizens, stop the deterioration of character and the hopelessness that has been brought about by the dole system, and increase the amount of worth-while relief from the care the government is extending to those who are unable, for the time being, to support themselves.

Worry, not work, breaks men down, says a preacher. Yes, the average person knows how to keep from working.

Nobody stands still this day and time. People are busy jumping from in front of automobiles and dodging creditors.

The illiterate man has many fears but he need never worry about his love letters being read before a jury.

Things are improving. Salesmen have quit making contacts and are now taking orders.

Many men who tried to keep in step with their neighbors are now doing the lock-step.

Of course, marriages may be made in heaven but some of them turn out worse than hades.

The proof of the pudding is in the repeat orders.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Gasoline Out of Water.

"Out of a gallon of sea water, I can make a gallon of gasoline. Out of ten gallons of sea water, I can make ten gallons of gasoline. I can change the seas of the world into an ocean of gasoline!" Thus spoke Albert Saeurs, a simple auto mechanic of Rouen in a group of well-known chemical experts, university professors, a delegate of the French war ministry, several foreign military attaches, representatives of the great oil trusts and members of the press. All these people had come to Rouen in a skeptical mood and they remained hostile to the end. Nevertheless, they felt ill at ease when they left. For they had seen something that worried them.

I can change sea water into gasoline. Those words stick. Suppose the man is right? It's a big question. Perhaps the biggest question confronting the world today.

It is not difficult to see what a revolution the preparation of synthetic gasoline will produce in the world's whole economic system. The representatives of the big oil trusts, Standard Oil and Royal Dutch Shell, the two mammoth royal concerns, were very much interested.

Albert Saeurs may just be a bluff. His claims deserve investigation, though. Gasoline is being made synthetically by the Leuna Werke in Germany. But the cost of production there is 10 times more than natural oil. The patents of the Leuna Werke were bought by Standard Oil for $200 million two years ago. But Albert Saeurs claims his process costs nothing at all. Just sea water, that's all. There is plenty of that in the world.

See the Gas.

I saw 10,000 gallons manufactured out of sea water. I saw cars drive off that were run on this new gas. So did the experts and they were worried. Suppose Saeurs is not just a bluff? The future will tell. He is quite willing to welcome visitors. They can analyze, experiment and repeat all they want. They did. They shook their heads and looked worried.

The little factory of M. Saeurs stands over a brook. From this brook the water is pumped. From this tank it goes into a 500-gallon container. In that container is nothing but three electric cables and a cylinder. The cylinder contains a mysterious element, which changes the water into gasoline. For every gallon of water, 33 grams, a very small quantity, of oxygen is added. The water boils for an hour and out runs the gasoline. It has excellent qualities, this new gasoline. It does not corrode metal. But it has also one disadvantage. This M. Saeurs readily admitted to the experts, it evaporates quicker than ground oil. But this is a minor detail. When you consider that it virtually costs next to nothing.

How It Is Done?

When the experts had left, I asked Saeurs to tell me something of his process. He said: "My invention rests upon a well-known fact. In the neighborhood of oil wells you always find wells of salt water. Mixed with this salt water is a little oil. I sought and found the connection between water that contained both oil and chloronium (salt). That is to say, that salt water is always a little oil. I succeeded in duplicating in an artificial manner the process which nature employs in producing oil. That process is of the greatest simplicity. Only one thing I must keep secret: the composition of the factor or element which determines the change from water to oil."

He further told me that two attempts had been made to blow up his plant, but he never leaves his plant, night nor day. The Leuna Werke in Germany where gasoline is made out of coal under terrific pressure, have a room through which every visitor passes. Here he is X-rayed without knowing it. They may have full of ultra-violet rays, which spoil and blacken any hidden photographic plates visitors may be carrying on their persons. Albert Saeurs has only his revolver.

"How much do you ask for your invention?" I asked. "Fifty million dollars," he replied.

When I looked up in surprise, he said: "What's that? $150,000,000 when you can run this thing for nothing?"

To be sure, what is it? But who will buy Standard Oil or Shell? And is Saeurs a faker or is he a genuine benefactor? The future will tell.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

SODIUM PERBORATE MOUTHWASH.

Here is news from the front. First a flash to the doctor who gives us the news. He writes: "I am 64-1/2 years old. I play tennis several times a week and I play hard. I am a very active man. I am in the water every day."

An alert, promising youngster, evidently. Maybe when he's grown up he'll make a bowler who can be safely allowed on the green.

Now, doctors and folks, quiet please, while we make the announcement. Doctors will kindly gnash their teeth in the corridors outside. They may have a meeting by themselves to decide what to do about it.

"There is one thing I wish you could write about and that is the use of sodium perborate to prevent gingivitis, also to cure it. (Gingivitis means inflammation of gums). One heaping teaspoonful in a glassful of very warm water, swished in through the teeth. . . . It is now five years since I had my teeth scaled and I will never have to have that done again. I keep some of the solution in my mouth while I am shaving, using a fresh mouthful of the warm solution once or twice while shaving. I use the perborate in contact with the tissues 10 minutes or more."

"When prescribing this for my patients I always prescribe a pound of sodium perborate which costs the patient not more than a dollar here. That makes a lot of mouthwash, tooth paste, dentifrice or whatever you prefer to call it. I hope to see more about this prophylactic and remedial use of perborate in your column. Never mind your friends the dentists; they have no more love for the brass bowl than I have for you anyway."

May 17, '27, the following was printed in this column: "Among the remedies which have been found beneficial for trench mouth (Vincent's angina) are methylene blue, mercurchrome, arsenamine (injections) and sodium perborate."

"Sodium perborate is highly praised by Dr. (Joseph C.) Bloodgood. From experience in his clinic he suggests that all dentists, even those who are not dentists, give a treatment with sodium perborate before and after dental treatment."

"For the treatment of trench mouth,

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

ROMANCING WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—No well-informed person here even lifted an eyebrow at General Butler's vision of a fascist coup by Wall Street. The only thing it meant was that, in this age of realism, romance may be dead, but romancing certainly is not.

The generally accepted version on the inside was that some inconsequential person in New York may have been absurd enough to say something to someone else about a revolutionary coup. There are more suckers per square inch in Wall Street than anywhere in the world, but the most provincial of them has so far had more sense than to think anything could be done that way. At least it is new for them to be loosening up good green money on any such proposition.

Military men spoofed each other in private about the ridiculousness of it. They agree that a revolutionary coup in this country would be utterly impossible. You can capture nearly any foreign government by capturing the army. But capturing this government would be like trying to capture all the European governments at once, because you would have to capture each state government separately, each state militia, each army outpost.

Wall Street could get much farther with $500,000 for propaganda than 500,000 men for fighting. Every newsboy in Wall Street knows that, except those who have been eating too much Welsh rabbit before retiring.

EXCITEMENT The only serious part about it, from an inner standpoint, is the unfortunate fact that the story came at a time when there is already too much unwarranted excitement in the world. Premier MacDonald told the house of commons the other day that the world was "lumpy." J. P. Morgan said, when he came back from Europe: "We could do with less excitement."

They did not need to mention that they referred to the London naval disarmament conversations. Authorities here knew from the beginning that the conversations would not get anywhere. They are convinced now that the wisest course probably would have been not to have taken them at all. They do not expect a war or even if they had been in mind that the world might be in a more serious difficulty, but they do believe the present state of the world requires "level-headed thinking and sound talking"—as one New Deal official expresses it.

DICKERING The published yarns from Geneva said that Austria opposed the American proposal for control of arms. What they did not say was that Austria is Mussolini.

Confidential advices to our authorities indicate that it is not our Minister Wilson whom early this week he was not exactly enthusiastic about the plan. He did not say he was against it, nor did he say he was for it, but he doubted its feasibility. Our people expected the Italian delegate to object, but, lo, up rose the Austrian. The other delegates must have smiled.

We still are hopeful that we can bring Mussolini around, in which case we know Austria will find a way to withdraw its objection.

ACE Minister Wilson did not tell all our plan. He has an additional angle in his pocket.

It will propose that each government permit the international arms commission to enter its territory at any time and conduct an investigation to determine whether each country is living up to the agreement. That is an ace in the hole which will cause an uproar when offered.

Our strategists considered it unwise to prejudice our basic proposal by suggesting such a strong measure at first.

CAFETERIA CONVERSATION There was something underneath the naval secrecy move which official denials could not entirely cover up—but not much.

Navy Secretary Swanson's denial that secrecy orders had been broadcast inside the department appears to be literally true. What he did not disclose, however, is that a confidential memo was sent around the department recently cautioning employees against talking about naval plans while lunching in the cafeteria upstairs.

The cafeteria is theoretically a public place, although it is patronized almost entirely by naval employees.

A certain official seems to have overheard employees discussing confidential matters at lunch and feared the possibility of leaks through this source. Apparently no actual leak occurred.

TIGHTENING There are other signs that the navy recently has been tightening up on loose ends. No point has been made of the matter publicly, but no more Filipino mess-boys or stewards are being recruited and they are being let out as fast as their terms expire. Negroes are replacing them as naval servants.

The official reason for the change is that the Filipinos are being granted independence, but the fact is independence cannot come for at least eleven and one-half years.

The navy has offered the additional private explanation that it does not want any foreigners on its ships, but the Filipinos never have been American citizens and their status as foreigners will not be altered after independence.

A more obvious reason for the change will be apparent.

THREE R'S One of the spokesmen of the New Deal says its aims can be reduced to three R's—relief, recovery and reform, in the order named. That is reversing the old order, which used to be: Reform, relief and recovery.

Strange Effect of Our Folk Customs On a Visitor From Mars

By Robert Quillen.

A man from Mars alighted in America, intending to remain if he liked the country, and engaged an experienced booster to serve as guide.

As the two drove across country, the Martian observed the strange color of creeks and rivers and asked what made the water so dark.

"That," said the booster, "is mud made of topsoil. Most of our land is sloping and the usual method of cultivation encourages washing. In a few years our soil will be gone."

"But why is it permitted?" asked the Martian.

"Oh," said the booster, "this is a free country and a man can do as he pleases with his own property."

Presently they saw two officers leading a farmer to jail and the Martian asked for an explanation.

"That fellow," the booster replied, "raised corn on his farm and distilled it to make him some liquor. So he goes to prison."

"A strange kind of liberty," murmured the Martian. "Perhaps you'd better show me your lawmakers."

His wish was granted and he made no effort to conceal his disappointment.

"Surely," said he, "these are not your smartest men."

"Well no," the booster admitted. "The smart ones make money. If you see one making laws, it's because the job pays him more than he can make in private life."

"That explains much," said the Martian. "But surely you have other able men—scientists and teachers, for instance."

"Yes, indeed," said the booster. "Over there is a group of them going to lunch. The teachers are our youngsters for life and the scientists discover things to make life richer and safer."

"But they don't look like," said the Martian.

"No," the booster agreed, "they don't. They get two or three thousand a year. But look over to the right and you'll see the mansions of two billionaires."

"Wonderful!" cried the Martian. "How did they become so wealthy?"

"One of them," explained the booster, "makes poison gas, bombs and other devices to kill people, and the other sold worthless paper to simple investors. Now, on the left—"

But the Martian held up a restraining hand. "Please," said he, "I must get back. I find that your climate or something makes me sick at my stomach."

U. S. OFFICIALS PRAISE GEORGIA FERA LEADER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—While Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia relief administrator, received praise for her office here, relief headquarters indicated today a formal statement will be issued on her plan to scrap the office of the surviving members of his team if such could be arranged in connection with this year's renewal of the old feud with Missouri.

Of course, Mr. Yost should be invited, too, and asked to deliver once more his now familiar lecture on the evils of the country, and his declared himself as vigorously as the days of '96.

Yost, however, goes your correspondent's favorite football legend.

ANTI-JINGO ASSAULT PARTIALLY REPUDIATED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A widely publicized article appearing under the name of Viscount Admiral Makoto Saito, former Japanese premier, assailing Jingoism in his own and other countries, was partially repudiated tonight by the Japanese embassy.

In a formal statement, the embassy explained Admiral Saito gave Herbert Hilscher an interview last August but had never seen or approved the article as it appeared in the Christian Science Monitor.

It was denied the admiral had said there was a division of opinion in Japan on naval matters, or that Jingoists were scheming to force Japan to build the world's greatest navy.

Hiroshi Saito, the ambassador, took advantage of the partial repudiation statement to declare "the Japanese nation is united on the naval question."

FAIRENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Pegler Finds New York Vanishing Hero.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—With a little sense of regret, your correspondent reports that he has finally dug up the vanishing football hero of Kansas University who helped Kansas through the first all-victorious season in the history of the school in 1898, then disappeared abruptly and became a legend. The story had given pleasure to the football G. A. R.'s of the middle West for many years and had acquired a new sort of interest as Fielding H. Yost gradually rose from the status of carpetbagging coach and occasional player to his present position as athletic director of the University of Michigan and bishop, as it were, of football.

Many times in recent years Mr. Yost, a pious man in matters of football ethics, has decried and deplored the practice of recruiting, proselytizing and subsidizing football players. But always, in football season, in those gatherings on the road, with fatted heroes of other years perched on the footboards of somebody's bed or squatted on the musty carpet coddling sweetly glasses of corn or what-not, someone would remember Mr. Yost's year as coach at Kansas and the mystery of his disappearing tackle.

Slight Change

The name of the man was George R. Krebs and sketches who have rifled the old newspaper files in Kansas City, find no mention of any heroics performed by him in '98, might have done better if they had borne in mind that the football rings like many other lines of deceitful practice, prefers to operate under an alias.

Perhaps the same research in the old volume of the Kansas City Home-Coming Day celebration. The federal government gives the farmer a check on the vote. The Bankhead act I want every man and woman in this section to turn out and vote. The drama measure is voted into the district. Governor Tamm made said.

The governor also urged the farmers to "stand up and vote." The "ballot" will be in the hands of those who are provided jobs by the act.

He said that the Bankhead act and the accompanying process tax on cotton had wrought havoc all over Georgia and that the sooner the measure was repealed a shorter time after the election, the better.

"We've been asked $3,500,000 for relief in Georgia last month," he said, "and that's far too much."

The governor said the first he has made in Douglas county in several years. A large crowd was on hand to hear him. Arrangements had been made for the speaker to be delivered in the Douglas superior court room but because it did not provide space for all those who came to hear it the speaker switched outside at the last minute.

Governor Tamm was introduced by Superior Judge James H. Hutcherson.

Preceding the address homecoming celebrators met and formed the Douglas High School Alumni Association. Officers elected included Henry Abernethy, president; Kermit Meadows, vice president; Miss Mary Hays, secretary, and Mrs. R. L. Cahoon, treasurer.

A barbecue and a football game between the Douglasville High School team and the North Fulton High school team followed the speech. Professor W. M. Burt, principal of Douglasville High, was in charge of arrangements.

Not All. Richberg last night reiterated his interpretation of section 7-A of the recovery act, applied to the Houde decision. While the labor board ruled that a union for which the majority of the workers in a particular plant speak for an employer, the collective bargaining, Richberg held that it would represent only those actually voting.

The discrepancy between the two interpretations of 7-A provoked much comment two months ago. A national business organization asked that it be cleared up. No further elucidation has been attempted since the case was called that in several instances President Roosevelt has declared for the majority rule.

The last labor board ruling, announced tonight, held that only in "extreme cases" should the name of a company union be excluded from the ballot in an industrial election. It asserted that otherwise the choice of joining a company union or a national union was for the employee to make.

Although labor declared itself not displeased with the decision, it was regarded as finding a favor with leaders of the heavy industries, especially steel and automobiles, where the company unions have been simmering for a year or more.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

by ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS. Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Major Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Jack, a lawyer, who is serving a 20-year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor. In a London night club, Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the fight broke out and he was struck in the throat by a table-knife. Last witness against Colin was Major Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her father's trial. Jack Caermann, an old pal of Colin's, is his lawyer. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and Stornack is frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother persuades her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. Jack and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The Canadian solicitor came to London to tell her of it. Rhoda meets Jack Caermann, who is a lawyer. He is in charge of the British government's did not obtain in France. But Mrs. Cornboise had only to show it to the authorities and Rhoda would at once be sent back to Britain. The country will allow a lunatic to stay.

The car was waiting at the corner of the road—in it was Estelle, who had obtained the afternoon off. "You intend to bring the little one back?" she asked. "I shall be glad for I have the instincts of a mother." "No," Rhoda interrupted. "I intend to make what arrangements I can. And then, of course, I shall not wish my mother to know what I have done." "There was no need of openly defying her mother," Captain Caermann, in one of the letters that had reached her through Estelle, had explained legal position. True that the ruling of the British magistrates did not obtain in France. But Mrs. Cornboise had only to show it to the authorities and Rhoda would at once be sent back to Britain. The country will allow a lunatic to stay.

The car drove for some dozen miles in the direction of Paris, then stopped at a modern villa with a small strip of garden, of the kind that would be rented for about 15 shillings or a pound a week in Britain.

The little one is in there in charge of M. Dubois. He was once a merchant-captain and is very respectable. "Thanks," said Rhoda. "If my baby is really here, I want you to leave me. I'll hire another car to take me back."

Mme. Dubois, a kindly, middle-aged woman, herself opened the door. "Madame, I think you have a baby in the house. If so, I must tell you that I am the mother of that baby. Will you allow me to see him?" "Assuredly, madame," Rhoda said. "You understand that arrangements have been made, madame's tone was severe."

"Please let me see him," entreated Rhoda. "Mme. Dubois invited her to enter. A bearded giant of a man shuffled into the hall. Madame explained and he bowed gravely to Rhoda. They treated her with cold politeness. They did not approve of young women who parted with their babies."

Rhoda was taken upstairs to a nursery—a clean, bright room with a very elaborately decorated cot, in which was Colin Jack. She ran towards him with a little cry that made the middle-aged couple look at each other in surprise. Some minutes later they were all talking together again, the cold element in their politeness had quite disappeared.

"Put, madame, it is astonishing!" said the man. "Yesterday a lady, who made it understood she was your mother—she spoke to us through an interpreter—said that you were anxious to be rid of your little one."

"Perhaps my mother believed it to be so," Rhoda interrupted. "I am not a misanthrope," said Rhoda. "I assure you, I do not wish to lose my baby. I love him and I love his father, who is my husband."

"Then this is a distressing mistake," said Madame. "We have always wished for a child, my husband and I, and it was arranged that we should adopt him. And your mother insisted that later she should help to pay for his education and we did not protest, and perhaps it would be better for him, as we have not too much money. It was legally arranged but in such a case one does not invoke the law. Do you wish to take your baby away, madame?"

Tears sprang to Rhoda's eyes and impulsively she seized the French woman's hand and kissed it. "You are so good to me, madame. I want my baby, but I cannot take him at once. O, it is difficult to explain! And you have been so kind that I cannot tell you just some story that I have made up."

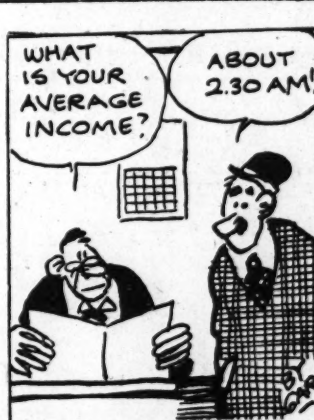

"We have eyes, madame. It is not necessary to tell us anything that you do not wish." It was the man who spoke. "Then you will let me say this."

"I ain't denyin' myself. I just don't seem to want things so bad when I'm payin' cash instead of chargin' it." (Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution.)

POWER OF THE VACUUM. Not quite 300 years ago, a German scientist made a test to learn how much power it would take to pull apart a hollow steel ball which contained no air. The scientist was named Otto von Guericke, and he had served as mayor of Magdeburg, a town located between Berlin and Leipzig.

Long afterward—indeed, only in recent times—the vacuum cleaner was invented. A clean motor or other power is used to run a fan or pump which makes a partial vacuum. The result is that air rushes in from outside, taking dust and dirt along with it.

The widespread use of vacuum cleaners may be one of the reasons for the gain in public health. Along with dust, the cleaners draw up germs of many kinds, some of them dangerous.

Often, as I have walked through the streets of a city and have noticed the dust which even a light breeze will stir up, I have wondered how much time would pass before street cleaning would be done in a thorough manner. Perhaps some bright-minded inventor will devise a vacuum cleaner for streets and sidewalks. Such cleaners, I feel sure, would do much for public health.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of pills, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly strong and buoyant and full of enthusiasm.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't look for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remotest a substitute. See at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

STEEL-UNION FIGHT MINNESOTAN NAMED HEAD OF AUDITORS; PRISON SYSTEM Praised After Inspection

Litigation Believed Inevitable as Negotiations Break Down.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—The battle between the gigantic steel industry and its union labor today moved toward the courts.

Collapse of negotiations between the United States Steel Corporation and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers was regarded by the interested here as making court action inevitable.
At the same time, Attorney-General Cummings indicated that court action in another case—that involving the Houde Engineering Company, of Buffalo, N. Y.—would be instituted as soon as the national labor relations board drafted a bill of complaint.
With that bill, it was intimated, the justice department will seek injunction proceedings against the company, which the board says refused to abide by a ruling that it should deal with representatives of a union selected by a majority vote of employees.

The steel labor board, meanwhile, must decide whether to order elections at the Steel Corporation's Duquesne (Pa.) and McDonald (Ohio) plants, as the union asked.
Strong hints that the corporation would refuse to hand over pay rolls to the board for compilation of voting eligibility lists have come from steel sources.
Walter P. Stacy, chairman of the steel board, said today that the normal procedure for obtaining the pay rolls, if they were not surrendered voluntarily, would be to obtain court subpoenas.

Such action likely would meet a challenge from the industry. Leading interests time and again have told the board it was set up unconstitutional.

Stacy has replied that he would welcome a court test.

MIDWEST-SOUTH BLOC FAVORED BY FARMERS

By the Associated Press.

Farm leaders Thursday viewed the proposal of Oscar Johnston, AAA official and Mississippi cotton planter, that the south and midwest unite in a huge farm bloc to demand parity for agriculture as a reiteration of a plan often suggested but still vitally needed.

Johnston, who heads the producers' cotton option pool within the AAA, in Washington said such a union was necessary to demand "drastic, fundamental, remedial legislation" for agriculture.

He said the government must discontinue reclaiming land through the branch while another is taking action out of production; give proper consideration to agriculture when negotiating trade treaties; discontinue the "policy of playing fairly godmother for every sort of manufacturing enterprise"; plan economic conditions in the light of the welfare of the farmer, and revise tariff laws to open up foreign markets for American agricultural surpluses.

The first step to achievement, he stated, is the recognition by the south and midwest that their interests are identical.

Here's what some of them said:
G. C. Adams, Georgia commissioner of agriculture: "The farmer certainly does need protection, just as does the manufacturer. How can the unprotected farmer buy the products of the protected Massachusetts watch manufacturer if they are not on an equal economic footing? The cotton farmer, for example, competes with the world and does it without a particle of protection."

C. B. Steward, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation: "There is nothing new in Johnston's proposal. Those are the fundamental principles on which the three great farm organizations, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, have based their demand for a permanent agricultural policy, the problems of the American farmer will be solved by the farmers who find expression through these three organizations for the policies they want carried out."

Harry F. Kapp, manager of the Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation: "The farmers of the south and west are pretty well blocked up now. I do not see any necessity for it. We have able and well-paid representatives in the national council for co-operatives, and in the American Farm Bureau Federation capable of handling the farmers' interests."

H. G. Kreny, president of the Nebraska Farmers' Union: "The suggestion is an honest effort to solve the problem. It sounds pretty good. We

Members of the convention of state auditors, treasurers and comptrollers who visited the Bellwood prison farm of Fulton county Thursday afternoon are seen above on the steps of the office building of the camp. They are, from left to right, front row, J. C. Anderson, of Utah; Mrs. Anderson and Fay Anderson, also of Utah; L. B. Baynard, of Louisiana, and George F. Longino, of Georgia; second row, Walter C. Hendrix, of Georgia; Mrs. James J. Brett, of Montana; Miss Olive Hayford, Mrs. Elbert D. Hayford and Miss Eleanor Hayford, of Maine; third row, James J. Brett, of Montana; J. A. McIntosh, of Georgia; and Mrs. Fritz, of Montana; back row, L. C. Carrithers, of Washington, D. C.; R. J. Smith, of Connecticut; G. B. Hamilton, of Georgia; and Thomas Judd, of Connecticut.

M. J. Desmond, deputy state auditor of Minnesota, Thursday was elected president of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers at the annual convention which has been in progress at the Piedmont hotel for the past three days. Thursday afternoon the delegates inspected the Bellwood convict camp, to get a first-hand idea of the state's prison system.

Col. was named convention city for 1935, the annual meeting to be held there in September.
Other officers elected Thursday in addition to Mr. Desmond, were: Edmund R. Stewart, state auditor of Maryland, first vice president; Charles A. Waters, state treasurer of Pennsylvania, second vice president; Morris Tremaine, comptroller of the state of New York, third vice president; A. J. Beattie, comptroller general of South Carolina, fourth vice president; George B. Hamilton, state treasurer of Georgia, secretary, and L. B. Baynard, state auditor of Louisiana, treasurer.

The convention visited the Bellwood prison camp of Fulton county Thursday afternoon in a body. There were as many different ideas on prison camps as there were states represented, but all there had nothing but praise for the Georgia system after viewing the camp.

George F. Longino, chairman of the board of Fulton county commissioners, and Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the public works committee, led the group of the delegates on an inspection of the Fulton county prison camps. Eight cars left the need some one who will begin to try and solve our problems right here in the middle west where they originate."

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas: "There is every reason why the west should stand together for a square deal for agriculture and no reason why it should not stand with the south."

Charles F. Dineen, secretary of the Milwaukee Milk Producers' Association: "I can go along with Johnston on most of his proposal. The tariff law should be rewritten to put agriculture on a more equal footing with industry. All branches of agriculture must be represented when the law is drawn."

R. W. Brown, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation: "I think the proposal advocated by Johnston for uniting the midwest and south in support of a recovery program for agriculture is in line with previous proposals offered by farm bureaus in these areas."

Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association: "The interests of the south and midwest are in common. I take a broader view, however, of all groups and all localities will best be served by the establishment of permanent parity between agricultural and industrial prices."

Dan Casement, Manhattan (Kan.) cattle breeder: "Mr. Johnston might well have gone a step farther and recommended that government discontinue its policy of trying to play fairly godmother to agriculture, too."

Argentina Refuses Agreement on Wheat

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 22.—(P)—Argentina told the international wheat association today that she will not accept the proposed agreement to continue in effect during 1935 reductions in wheat acreage made last year.

Her decision, based on the contention the present basis of acreage reduction is unfair, came after other members of wheat "Big Four"—the United States, Canada and Australia—had accepted in principle the draft of proposed agreement.

The basis adopted by the wheat commission was 15 per cent reduction in comparison with the average of the last three years. But Argentina, represented by Rodolfo Garcia Arias, argued the reductions should be calculated against the average since 1914.

MILITANT MODELS ORGANIZE, READY FOR FIGHT ON DEBS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—Already equipped with a president and a lawyer, the new-formed Professional Models' League struck out tonight to win their battle against society girl competitors "once and for all," Miss Gertrude L. Mayer, their leader, disclosed.

"It is the first models' association on record," Miss Mayer said, "but it is not a union in any sense of the word."

"There's no reason why the modeling profession shouldn't have a group similar to the Actors' Equity, or the Lambs and Friars."

Sixty girls signed up as charter members when the league was organized.

Miss Mayer declared the campaign against debutantes who were taking their jobs was being "marvelously" but that an organization was needed. She said she had been "advised to organize" on a trip to Washington last week to consult labor leaders.

"The manufacturers and retailers have supported us admirably," she said, "and I believe we owe each and every one a vote of thanks."

'Long Count' Referee Indicted for Fraud

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(P)—Warrants charging Dave Barry, "Long Count" boxing referee, and two others with larceny of $55,000 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank were issued by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in felony court today.

The others named in the warrants were Joseph Ralita, partner of Barry in the Dave Barry Enterprises, Inc., and Abraham Karatz, once an attorney in St. Paul, Minn. The warrants were sought by Thomas Dodd Healy, assistant state's attorney. Bond for each was set at $10,000.

Barry became the center of a sports controversy after the second prize fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. Dempsey failed to retire to a neutral corner after flooring the champion at the time lost by Barry in beginning the count because of the rule that gave Tunney additional time to recover. Tunney subsequently won, and disappointed Dempsey followers were loud in their claims that their man was robbed by the "14-count."

LOW INTEREST LOANS ADVOCATED FOR CITIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(P)—Florence La Guardia tonight proposed that the United States conference of mayors call upon congress to authorize low interest public works loans to the nation's major cities.

New York's chief executive suggested the funds be advanced for projects controlled by cities but approved by federal authorities, that the interest rate be fixed at one-eighth of one per cent, and that the municipalities be permitted to borrow one-tenth of their debt each year from the loans to retire their existing obligations.

JOB, PAY ROLLS GAIN IN OCTOBER

280,000 More Are Employed; Wage Figures Increase by $11,300,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—A marked increase in both employment and pay rolls in industry during October was reported today by the labor department.

Employment increased by 280,000 workers, the department estimated, while weekly pay rolls jumped $11,300,000 compared with September.

Much of the gain was attributed to the end of the textile strike. Forty-six other manufacturing industries also reported gains, however.
October employment was approximately the same as January, 1931, Secretary Perkins, discussing the figures, expressed particular pleasure with the pay roll gains in durable goods industries, even though employment there fell off slightly. Increased pay rolls, she said, were a sign that the industries were getting more work.

The administration has been making particular efforts to speed the durable goods industries' operations.

The department attributed a 3.9 per cent increase in building construction employment at least partly to the federal housing program. Pay rolls in private construction went up 6.6 per cent from September to October.

Reports from 62,022 retail establishments showed 1.5 per cent gain in employment and 2.6 increase in pay rolls. Miss Perkins interpreted those figures to mean the trade was better than holding its own after an unusual increase the previous month. Thirty-one states reported employment gains. New Hampshire led with 54.6 per cent.

Better Than Powder For the Complexion

Nearly all beauty experts agree that face powder does more harm than good, which explains why smart women are turning to Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumber, which not only takes the place of powder, giving the face a beautiful tone and finish, but also is greatly beneficial in preventing that ugly reddening, roughening, and chapping of the skin in all kinds of weather. One application of Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumber will beautify the skin all day, making it smooth, clear, soft and healthy. This cream contains no mercury and is harmless, but is guaranteed to be an indispensable essence of cucumber. Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumber will not grow hair, but it will remove facial wrinkles. Use at all cosmetic counters, in white, flesh or brunette, or sent direct upon receipt of price. Cucumber Cream Co., Dept. 6, Lynchburg, Va.—(adv.)

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be answered in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have two questions, one of ethics and one of etiquette. My father lent me the money for my education and I am now a lawyer. He and my mother are getting old but they make out very nicely with what they have.

My father is a state school for a nominal salary that enables me to live and reduce my indebtedness slowly. I recognize the binding obligation to repay every cent of the loan and also to help him to live after my parents when they can no longer produce. For more than a year I have been in love with a young lady, who like myself, is paying off the debt of her father's college expenses. She will be out of debt by September of next year.

We are planning to be married at that time, just before school opens. My father will involve me extra expense. We must have furniture and other things necessary to housekeeping. This will mean that my father must wait a longer time for his money. The young lady is willing to work if she can get a position, which is always uncertain. So the ethical question is: Have I the right to consider my own happiness to assume the expense of a wife, while I am still in debt for my education?

The question of etiquette arises from the fact that the young lady's father is insanely jealous of me and has been insulting when I have called at his home. Naturally I don't go there to live until he makes amends for his boorishness. I expected to ask his permission to marry his daughter, to ask him to announce our engagement to his friends and to make amends for his boorishness. He and my mother are in sympathy with us and condemn their father's conduct. Elopements so often result in unpleasantness between families that we would like to avoid this. How can we manage the situation so as to preserve our self-respect and dignity?

Answer: There is no danger of sacrificing self-respect and dignity so long as you hold your temper and your tongue. The fact that the young lady is self-supporting relieves her of any obligation to defer to her father except as she wishes to fill toward him. She has the right to reserve the right to be rude to her father. He cannot expect her to be affectionate toward him. If you are unwilling to speak to her father, suggest to her that she go to him, tell him of your intention to speak to him about marrying his daughter, to request that he announce the engagement and permit you to have a "civilized wedding" but that his treatment of you had sealed your lips and made you unwilling to put yourself in position to absorb further rudeness at his hands. Then, if he declines this opportunity to make amends and restore amicable relations with you, you will at least have given him fair warning of your intention.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

A Squeeze at Trick 2

The other day I ran across one of the most novel situations in play which I have ever encountered. East, one of the defensive players, led out a high card at Trick 2 and completely surprised the declarer by leading the declarer from fulfilling a three-trump contract despite the fact that the nine tricks were cold and both of the declarer's hands were stopped. East's squeezing play forced the declarer to discard one of his sure winners, as if he had retained all of his finessers he would have been forced to discard a winner in one of the opponents' suits.

1—East saw no reason not to show his other suit at the level of one despite the fact that his partner had passed.

2—South, with a sure heart stopper, led some protection in spades, decided to gamble on three notrump, encouraged by his partner's very strong bidding.

West, lead against the three notrump contract decided to open a heart, knowing that his partner's lead most certainly held five cards in that suit and only four cards in spades. Dummy's South was topped by East's king, and this card naturally held the trick.

East now knew from his partner's lead of the eight-spot—marking the latter with a maximum of three cards in the suit—that South had two sure heart stoppers and accordingly that a heart continuation for the purpose of getting up tricks in that suit would be hopeless. However, East naturally stopped to inspect the dummy and as he inspected it he suddenly realized, to his great joy, that the God of Chance had been very good to him on this hand, provided only that his partner held one little ten-spot. East saw that the dummy had nine sure tricks—seven in hearts and two in clubs. East further saw that dummy had the spade suit stopped unless the queen could be led through. But—most important of all—East saw that the dummy would be in difficulties on a second heart lead. Accordingly East now played his heart ace, even though he knew this lead would set up two tricks for the declarer.

On the heart lead South followed from his own hand, but was fortunately relieved of the problem of discarding from dummy. He could not discard a spade as he knew East would then be able to run four spade tricks, so he had to discard one of his good diamonds. East now led a club and then played the diamond ten, guarded only once, and South would be forced to discard the ace of diamonds. Fortunately for East, the partner did have the diamond ten and the declarer was helpless. He saw the good tricks from dummy, but was forced to concede the last three spade tricks to the East player, and his contract was defeated one trick. Had South instead of West led the diamond ten, the declarer would have made five odd, as with the diamond ten as a card of re-entry to his hand, a third trick and two good diamond tricks could have been cashed.

It is obvious that had West opened a spade instead of a heart the declarer would have taken six tricks and set the contract two tricks. However, South cannot be blamed for deciding to open the longer of his partner's two suits, particularly since his own holdings in those two suits were practically equal.

to marry his daughter. If there are married sisters and brothers you may have your marriage at the home of one of them. If none of them has a home, the church is always open to young people for this ceremony.

It seems to me that your father's financial status should be the determining factor in your decision about the fall marriage. If you cannot be embarrassed there is no reason why you should defer your plans. School teachers never earn much more than the average, and it is not likely that they learn to economize and to do without the luxuries that others count necessities. The mere fact that you recognize not only your duty to repay the loan but your duty to stand between your parents and want, is proof that you won't be tempted to spend beyond your means or to indulge in extravagance.

There are two schools of thought about the matter of borrowing. Some say that a young man should borrow money and work faster than the one who has free rein with his income. Others say debt stifles ambition and cuts the nerve of enterprise in earning. But it is not money that borrowing money to make money is one thing and borrowing money to spend on current living is quite another. And it is not better for you and the young lady to give up the thought of having a home of your own for the present and borrow money to buy one and may afford to rent or buy one and

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST LECTURES AT CHURCH

Detroit Man Heard by Large Audience Here Thursday Night.

William Duncan Kilpatrick, C. S. B., of Detroit, Mich., Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., lectured on Christian Science Thursday night at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 Peachtree street, N. E.

"The Church of Christ, Scientist, according to St. Luke. It is reported that Jesus sent seventy of his disciples out into the world to practice the Christian Science of healing, teaching them," Mr. Kilpatrick said. "According to the narrative, these seventy returned unto him with joy, saying, 'Lord, because we have seen thy name through thy name.' To which Jesus replied, 'Rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.' By which, of course, he meant that they were to rejoice not so much over the works that they did as over the fact that they had the spiritual understanding to do them. In those few words Jesus emphasized the fact that one's spiritual understanding is the key to the understanding of God and man's relation to God—is a necessary prerequisite to the overcoming of material conditions, and that the spiritual understanding is the key to the right thinking, is among other things, individual dominion over materiality. We can but infer, therefore, from his words that the spiritual understanding is the key to the overcoming of material conditions, and that the spiritual understanding is the key to the right thinking, is among other things, individual dominion over materiality. ## Miss Broughton Becomes Bride Of Mr. Taylor at Home Ceremony

Miss Mary Broughton, only daughter of Dr. Joseph Broughton, became the bride of Robert Brown Taylor at a beautiful afternoon ceremony solemnized at 5 o'clock Thursday at the bride's home on Twelfth street. Members of the two families and a small group of close friends assembled to witness the marriage service which was read by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Tall palms were grouped to form an altar at one end of the long living room where the ceremony was performed. Graceful floor baskets filled with giant white chrysanthemums and seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers completed the altar arrangements. Roses, lilies and chrysanthemums in autumn shades adorned the other rooms of the home.

Miss Ruth Dabney Smith, violinist, and Mrs. John Fidler, pianist, rendered the wedding music, their selections including "Wedding" by Schumann; "Prelude" by Chopin; "Meditation" from "The Promise" by Debussy; and "The Promise" by Debussy.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Mrs. Walter Clifford Hendrix Jr. Mrs. Hendrix wore an empire gown of ice-blue satin, fashioned with a shirred yoke and a fitted skirt which flared into a brief train. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of tall-tapered roses.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Joseph Broughton. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom, Mr. Taylor, of Durham, N. C., who acted as best man.

Particular sentiment is attached to the gown and veil worn by the bride, who is one of the most beautiful young women of Atlanta society. The gown, a Lucien Lelong model of ivory satin, was the same that she wore when she was a member of the Randolph-Macon Woman's College, in Lynchburg, Va. Cut on princess lines it featured long sleeves of hand-sewn lace and the skirt flared into a long train. The bridal veil of rose point lace, posed over tulle, and held in place by clusters of orange blossoms, was that worn by the bride at her wedding to Mr. Taylor.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Mrs. Walter Clifford Hendrix Jr. Mrs. Hendrix wore an empire gown of ice-blue satin, fashioned with a shirred yoke and a fitted skirt which flared into a brief train. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of tall-tapered roses.

Miss Centanni Weds Frank Thomas Daly

A marriage characterized by unusual beauty was that of Miss Mary Centanni and Frank Thomas Daly, which was solemnized Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Saint Anthony's church. The Rev. Father Diemel officiated in the presence of a small gathering of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated for the occasion with an arrangement of palms and ferns, which were used to bank the altar. Vases filled with white giant chrysanthemums and snapdragons flanked either side of the altar, around which were grouped tall seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers.

A program of nuptial music, including "I Love You Truly," "Dawn," "Song Without Words," and "Evening Star," by Tannhauser, was rendered by Miss Nell Jentzen.

Miss Sara Frances Chelena was the bride's only attendant. She was attired in a becoming gown of gold crepe, fashioned with a tunic and a bolero of brown velvet and trimming of the same material on the sleeves. A rhinestone pin was caught on the bow at the neckline. She wore a small brown felt turban with a starched veil and brown accessories, and carried an arm bouquet of tall-tapered roses and snapdragons.

The lovely young bride entered with her brother, W. F. Floyd, and was joined at the altar by the bridegroom, Mr. Daly, of Cincinnati. Her handsome wedding gown was of chocolate almond crepe, fashioned with a tunic of the same velvet and trimmed with a starched veil and brown accessories, and carried a bouquet of tall-tapered roses and snapdragons.

During the taking of the vows "The Swan" was played, after which followed the nuptial high mass. A quartet, including E. J. Weckermeyer, Charles Bennett, G. O. Bane and Mr. Laughlin, rendered the mass, and Mr. Weckermeyer sang a solo, "Ave Maria." Each-chorus.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests assembled for an informal wedding reception at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Floyd. Mrs. W. F. Floyd wore a gown of brown crepe, with Caricoa rust outlining the neck and extending down the long sleeves. Her shoulder spray was of tall-tapered roses. Mrs. Edward A. Daly was groomed in black crepe with a cluster of Briarcliff roses.

Mr. Daly and his bride left for a wedding trip, the destination of which was not revealed. The bride wore for traveling a brown velvet and wool ensemble trimmed with large gold buttons. Her accessories were brown and her green coat was trimmed with Kalinsky fur.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

A Foundation Cream That Chases Shine From Oily Skins

By MIGNON.

There are women who insist that no matter what foundation cream they use, it isn't long before they can see the shine gleaming from their noses. Set out on a still hunt for this matter for the poor soul who will shine despite anything she can do to prevent it. I found it. (1) It is a foundation cream that is very economical affair—a large jar for a small sum. Frankly, I don't like it for a dry skin. There are others for that, but today I am talking only to the women whose complexions are in need of being dried off and dulled.

from the bothersome brilliancy of a damp shine.

(2) The same firm makes a very fine hand cream that you should know about. It is extremely soft and absorbs easily, leaving the hands cool and comfortable. It, too, is inexpensive and the jars are generous in size.

(3) As long as we are on the subject of this line I might tell you that if you want to try these products of the same make, their face powder sticks like a long-lost brother and is very fine in texture. It comes in very good-sized boxes and it won't break you to buy any of these things, and yet you get something that is superior in quality. The line is not new, but it has been made up in new packages that are very attractive. I've known several women who used this powder 10 years ago and are still using it.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column phone The Constitution. Please do not write unless you live outside the city, in which case enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Woman's Club Celebrates Birthday.

Atlanta Woman's Club meets on Monday afternoon, November 26, at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Max E. Land presiding. Mrs. John F. Boyd, popular dramatist and member of the fine arts department which sponsors the program, will read the play "Sojourners" by Ann Harwell and Isabelle Meeker, which is a colorful drama particularly well suited to the holiday season. An informal reception will be held and the thirty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the club will be commemorated by the cutting of a large birthday cake by the past presidents. Appropriate toasts will be made and invitation is extended to club members and their friends.

Mrs. Nichols Feted.

Mrs. Thomas Adrian Kitchens entertained recently at a dinner at their home on Orlando avenue, West End, in honor of Mrs. Cora L. Nichols, of Dahlonega, Ga., the charming guest of Mrs. W. W. Kilpatrick. Mrs. Nichols is a former Atlantian and deeply interested in Atlanta work in Atlanta. Mrs. Kilpatrick's hobby is welfare work and she and Mrs. Nichols are close friends.

Parties Honor Popular Debutantes.

A quartet of debutantes, Misses Octavia Riley, Epsie Dallas, Deas Smith, Sarah Hewlett were honor guests on Thursday at a luncheon given by Mrs. John Morris at her home on Peachtree road. Yellow and white chrysanthemums centered the perfectly appointed luncheon table where covers were placed for a group of close friends of the attractive honor guests. Misses Riley, Smith and Dallas were central figures at an informal tea given on Thursday by Mrs. George Lowndes at her Huntington road residence. Mesdames Ben T. Smith, Tom Daniel Jr., R. S. Ruse Jr., and L. F. Moncomery, assisted in entertaining. The guests included the members of the Debutante Club.

The Six-Shooter Is Out Again At Columbus Ticket Booth

By now the six-shooter is out on the counter. It is in plain view of the ticket buyers at Columbus, Ga., where the headquarters are established for the Georgia-Auburn game to be played there on Saturday.

The six-shooter is always conspicuous. And sitting around in the back of the place are two or three other gentlemen with bulges on their hips. No, not what you think. Guns again.

It may be the guns are there to protect the funds received for tickets. But I notice the guns do not come out until the better tickets are gone.

When a purchaser comes up and asks for tickets and is informed those left are at about the 10-yard line, the said purchaser often moves as if to depart.

It is then that the ticket seller coughs and puts his hand on the gun.

The purchaser looks startled and reaches for his money. "Well," he says, "I might as well take those."

I have always been a little bit suspicious of the big black six-shooter which decorates the counter at the ticket booth.

I am always very polite around the Columbus people putting on this game, tipping my hat and saying "Yes, sir," and "No, sir."

Mr. Alfred Young, who is an Auburn man, wires in that a clear day is all that is needed to kick the ticket sales up for a new record. All of which means that Saturday will be a gala day, so to say, in Columbus.

By now I have learned to dodge at least half of the open-house ceremonies before the game. Now and then an innocent young reporter has been known to accept all the hospitalities of the game. When the game is done, they wake him up and say, "Do you think you can write a story from the play-by-play in the extra, or shall we file one for you?"

Oh my, yes, the reporters have to be careful on their initial visit to Columbus when Georgia plays Auburn.

He has to know how to say, "Hiya been, Judge Frank Foley, and how is Charley?" And then hurry right on. Or maybe, "Well, Jeff Kelly, you rascal; sorry I can't see you just now." Or maybe, "Well, well, well, Alfred Young. See you in just a minute."

Oh my, yes, Columbus the day of the Georgia-Auburn game is something else.

There are no finer people in the world than the Columbus people and I would not miss that game. It's the real Georgia feature.

THAT 1892 GAME.

The first game was played on February 20, 1892, at Piedmont park.

There is an account of that game, with some "action" pictures of same, on the sports pages today. One of the stars was Charles D. Herty, the Savannah scientist who is now making history and preparing the way for new wealth for the south by making newsprint of slash pine.

He was "Little Herty" and he started that day at Piedmont park, leading a forlorn fight against Auburn as the Plainsmen won, 10 to 0.

Park Howell, relative of Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, and later to become a well-known physician, was another star that day.

A poll of college men who have accomplished things in life would show that, more than any other group of men, the football player has forged his way forward. Others in that game have become noted teachers and professional men. And the same holds true today.

The football player is, at times, a much maligned man. And one of the favorite themes of some savants is to speak lightly of the player's intellectual accomplishments.

But that first game produced, among others, "Little Herty." He is answer enough.

"THE LONG SPECIAL TRAINS."

The long special trains of 1892 were trains of three coaches.

Be sure and read that story—and see the carriages racing out to Piedmont park—and the parades through the muddy streets of Atlanta—and the parade to the Kimball House, and the "boarders," all the way to the sixth floor, coming out to see the parade.

The reporters were not as exact as they might have been. "Auburn gained 10 yards by good playing," they wrote, in one instance.

Which is a very good way to gain 10 yards—by good playing.

THE KNITTING LADY.

A young lady who signs herself "E. Evans," writes in an incident of the Tech-Alabama game last week.

"I've waited all week to see something about it in your column, but you must have been watching those Alabamians run and Mr. Hutson catch passes. The worst has finally come in football audience behavior."

In section H, about the third seat from the aisle, at last Saturday's game, sat a young woman whose state of nerves at least must be complimented. Never did the excitement of the game cause her to lose her stride. Throughout the entire afternoon she sat there and calmly knitted on a delph blue something.

"Once long ago there was something written about two ladies who sat at a football game and talked about some dress goods, but I think the actual work done beats that, don't you?"

I do indeed. And thanks. But you know, every philosopher who has tried to analyze the feminine mind has gone very mad indeed and shot himself.

What is a 50-yard run compared with the latest method of picking up a dropped stitch?

And the ladies who knitted before the guillotine in the French revolution had a good act, don't you think?

BOYS' HIGH VS. TECH HIGH.

There is quite a traditional game scheduled for Ponce de Leon park Saturday afternoon when Boys' High and Tech High meet.

This will be the 26th meeting between the two elevens and their meetings are always a World War battle in miniature.

Tech High has won 15 of the 25 games and there has never been a tie. Eighteen of the past 21 have been won by a margin of 13 points or less. Which gives you an idea. It's a game worth seeing, with the city title at stake.

ALF ANDERSON DUE TO START FOR BULLDOGS

Will Replace Bond; Mehre Takes It Easy With His Squad.

By Bill Ray.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 22.—Coach Harry Mehre refused to take any chances at further injuries on the Georgia football squad and as a result the Bulldogs had only a light of fence workout this afternoon in place of the usual hard Thursday scrimmage.

Alf Anderson, the Decatur sophomore, who probably started the Auburn game Saturday at left half in place of Johnny Bond, the Toccoa typhoon, who has borne the brunt of the backfield work all season, and Buck Chapman were out with injuries it was the sterling Bond that carried all of the weight of making long runs through passing and doing the kicking. As a result the light but fiery Toccoa back is beginning to go stale and Coach Mehre believes that a little lay-off will be good for him. Bond will play in the game and his accurate toe will probably be called on for a great deal of kicking but it is doubtful if he will start.

RAD ON PASSES.

The adept passing ability of Alf Anderson will also come in handy if it is necessary for the Bulldogs to unleash a passing attack against Auburn. Georgia has been perfecting their passing plays all week and will probably toss a number of aerial bullets against the Tigers.

In the North Carolina State game, Georgia completed only two passes out of eight attempts, an average which didn't please the Georgia coaches in the least.

Cy Grant will be running opposite Alf Anderson at right half. The Cornelia fox hunter, who has been worried all season with a shoulder sprain, will be starting his first game since the North Carolina affair in October. Grant's kicking, which was impaired by the shoulder injury, has returned to normal.

Holding Bond in reserve will have another adept punter for the second backfield. Grant will handle the kicking for the starters with either Bond or Maurice Green, the bloated Texan fullback, doing the other kicking.

Jack Griffith, senior quarterback, and Aubrey (Buck) Chapman, fullback, will start the game. Griffith and Anderson, according to present plans, in the line will be Turbeyville and Wagon, ends; Shi and West, tacklers; McKnight, Brown, guards, and McKnight, center.

Georgia will take a light workout tomorrow after lunch and then board buses for Newnan where they will spend the night. The squad will leave Newnan early Saturday morning for Columbus and the annual classic against Auburn.

ANXIOUS FOR REVENGE.

Members of the present squad, many of whom are seniors, are extremely anxious to administer a drubbing to the Auburn "Tigers." For the seniors have not scored a victory over Auburn since they started playing football. In 1922 Auburn won 14 to 7, and in 33 they won 14 to 6.

Saturday night after the game the entire Georgia squad will be the guests of the Warm Springs Foundation at Georgia Hall where they will be served dinner. Coaches, managers and the entire official party will attend the function.

Plans have been made to give the seniors an opportunity to shake hands with President Franklin Roosevelt. Word has not been received yet whether or not the president will be able to attend the dinner.

Interest was keen in Athens among the students and citizens regarding the Auburn-Georgia game. A special will carry the Georgia band and a large number of the students to the game. Saturday for the attraction. The defeat of Florida, Yale and North Carolina State in succession by the Bulldogs has strengthened the student interest.

Quarterback Charley Treadaway, who was injured late in the practice yesterday, was found to be able to play against Auburn after an examination at the university infirmary this morning. Although Jack Griffith will start the game as quarterback, Coach Mehre will probably "Treadaway" a great deal. His injury was first thought to be a misplaced vertebra, but was found to be only a minor muscle strain.

Auburn Holds 'Dummy' Drill.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Alabama Institute Institute "dummy" brushed through a "dummy" practice scrimmage today as preparations for the season's closing game against Georgia neared an end.

Coach Mack Meagher announced the same team which started against Florida last week possibly would open against the Bulldogs at Columbus, Ga., Saturday.

The squad will leave Auburn early Saturday for Columbus.

Schofield Named G. M. A. Court Capt.

Martin Schofield, an end on the football team, was elected captain of the G. M. A. basketball team at the first practice session Thursday afternoon. Harold Cohen, center on the football squad, was named alternate.

Same Burbage will again be in charge of the basketball team, which plays its first game during the second week in December.

Bill White Plans Class D League

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 22.—Bill White, former coach of the University of Georgia baseball squad, announced today plans for the organization of a Class D professional baseball league among several North Georgia cities.

White is at present scout for the Atlanta Crackers, but will actively manage the Athens team, if the league is perfected, according to reports.

Bobby and Partner Square Exhibition

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, the golfer, and Dr. O. F. Willing paired together yesterday to cover an 18-hole exhibition match with Donald K. Moe and Johnny Hobbs both of Portland, all square.

Georgia-Auburn---1892 and 1934---'Little Herty' Starred

Above, set in the midst of a modern football crowd, is a "tear" from the account of the first football game played between Auburn and Georgia on February 20, 1892. "Little Herty," now the distinguished Georgia scientist who has invented a process for making newsprint of slash pine, was one of the stars in the game. The pictures above were made from dry chalk drawings reproduced on metal. Below is the account of the 1892 game. The two teams play Saturday at Columbus. One of the greatest football crowds ever seen at Columbus is expected for the game.

Douglasville Ends Season In 75-0 Fashion

By Jack Troy.

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 22.—Governor Gene Talmaide today presided over the annual meeting of the Douglasville High School alumni association which was held at the Douglasville High School. A fine barbecue dinner was served to the alumni and guests. The Douglasville High School team, which won the state championship last year, ended its season with a 75-0 victory over North Fulton High School, 75 to 0.

And so a good time was had by all today. The annual homecoming game, which took on all of Dallas county, was put on in a laudable manner.

For instance, Mayor W. E. Hewitt issued a proclamation and all stores were closed. School colors—purple and gold—adorned school fronts and all prominent places. T. N. Mosley, mayor of Douglasville, presided over the barbecue pit away, but they stuck to their posts through the long night and were ready at noon to feed the long line of visitors.

The red clay field was muddy and rain fell through the first half, but spectators had a big time. They sat in cars along the sidelines and in the grandstand and bleachers. One stood around in the drizzle and rooted for the home team.

It's quite a team this Douglasville team coached by W. M. Burt, who came here two years ago from Wedowee, Ala., to take over athletics and the principalship of the school.

Not only has Douglasville gone through two seasons unbeaten, but also there have been only two teams to score on the well-coached eleven. No team scored on the Purple and Gold last year. But the purple and gold scored 326 points. One of the G. M. A. reserves each managed to put over a touchdown on Douglasville in the season just ended. The scoring record this season was 299 points against opponents' 13.

Douglasville is in the seventh district, and as there are no other teams around, the eleven goes out of the district and to the state championship. Some team steps up to challenge their claim. The Douglasville boys will consider themselves as champions of northwest Georgia. They have a record of 22 straight victories.

Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama, already has interviewed three of the players of this year's team—Mervin Leathers, a big and promising halfback; Billy Baggett, a fine end, who also goes back to the backfield and runs with the ball; and Emmett Willoughby, a likely-looking tackle.

Leathers and Billy Baggett, who are all three seniors and fine prospects. And the greatest of all is Leathers. You should have been here today to see this big boy action with the speed of a wild horse on the slippery field chance direction and throw wrinkles without losing any of his forward momentum. He has a great change of pace and runs with a lot of power, is hard to bring down.

He scored 6 of his team's 12 touchdowns and has given able interference by Billy Baggett and Willoughby.

Coach Mangham's North Fulton team never had a chance. But the team was very good. They would have but for two long touchdowns runs by Leathers on intercepted passes late in the game.

Leathers and Billy Baggett, who scored two touchdowns, one on a pass from Leathers, and Wilson were the offensive leaders, but Horton, Glover and Harding were very good. Melvin Glover handled the quarterbacking duties very well.

The two Fincher boys, Ollie and

'Little Herty' Played For Georgia in 1892

Auburn Met Bulldogs With School's First Football Team—Game at Piedmont Park.

(Editor's Note—Georgia's first football team, the one of 1892, met Auburn at Piedmont park and lost 10 to 0. It was Auburn's first game. Auburn was coached by Dr. George Petrie, still on the faculty at Auburn. Playing with Georgia was Charles Herty, the now famous Herty who has invented a method of making newsprint paper of Georgia slash pine. Other well-known players in Atlanta and Georgia life were, on those two teams. The Constitution herewith presents the account of that game between "Alabam," or the Alabama A. & M. team. It is taken from the files of The Constitution as written by Remsen Crawford. The game was played February 20, 1892.

"OLD ALABAM"

She Whips the Great Inter-Collegiate Football Fight.

TAKES CHAMPIONSHIP FROM GEORGIA

The Greatest Battle Known to College Athletes of the South.

HOTLY CONTESTED, INTENSELY EXCITING

Thousands of People Flock to Piedmont Park to Witness Greatest Football Game Played in the South.

Alabama ..... 10
Georgia ..... 0

The big city of Atlanta belonged to the college boys yesterday. They gathered here from Georgia and Alabama in vast armies, and stormed Georgia's capital with their merry yells, songs, jokes and extravagant jollity. Besides all this they gave a crowded grandstand the opportunity of witnessing the most thrilling game of college football ever played in the southern states—a game the like of which for intense excitement and clever playing on both sides will hardly ever be seen again, perhaps, on the southern field.

The rains came in rapid succession all the forenoon, and the dark, gray clouds that covered the sky were frightful in their threat.

But what are rains, and what are angry clouds when football is the issue? Despite the weather thousands of men, women and children flocked to Piedmont park and went wild with thrilling rapture and delight at the sight of 22 sturdy athletes pouncing over the big, smooth gridiron, fighting bravely for supremacy over the big, round rubber ball. Ah, what fun! what unutterable eagerness and excitement! What fascination and charm! Who would not be a college boy again, and roll over and over in the mud after the leather sphere; kick their feet as sore with kicking, and shout till their very throats play false and shout no more at their bidding?

Surely football is the game of all games—the sport of all sports.

Yesterday at 11:30 o'clock great crowds of people were about the Union passenger depot to see the special trains roll in bearing the college teams and their friends.

Athens was the first to come. The special train with nearly three hundred visitors glided noiselessly into the car shed at a quarter to 12 o'clock and the boys went to the Kimball at once, escorting the large company of ladies that came with them.

They all wore the university colors, crimson and black.

When they gathered in the corridor

Charity Match Ends All Even At Druid Hills

By Roy White.

Julius Hughes, city open champion, and Billy MacWilliams, Georgia titleholder finished all square with Charlie Yates, national intercollegiate champion, and Frank Ridley, Atlanta amateur champion, Thursday afternoon on the Druid Hills course in a charity match for the benefit of the Atlanta Elks Christmas Tree fund.

The match was one of the best of the year, but the crowd was small, due to the weather. Those who did not attend missed some mighty fine golf.

Hughes, playing on his home course, "stole" the show on the last few greens. He sank long putts on the 18th to square the match, followed by another on the 17th and had to sink the third one in succession to save the match on the 18th green. He had a medal round of 68, four strokes below par.

Hughes and MacWilliams went into the lead on the second hole and were two up at the turn.

After playing mediocre golf going out, Yates rallied on the back nine and birdies on the 12th and 13th holes squared the match. Ridley's fine putt on the short 15th gave the collegians a one-up advantage and it appeared as though they were away to a victory but Hughes checked the rally in the next hole with a birdie.

There were only five strokes separating the lowest from the highest score, which was proof enough of the fine golf played. Hughes led the scoring with a 68. Yates followed with a 70. MacWilliams had a 72 and Ridley followed with a 73.

Yates carded a fine 32, three strokes below par, on the back nine and played one of the best shots of the day on the 18th green. An approach left him only two feet away from the cup, and an apparent win, but Hughes studied his putt and followed with a 72.

MANN REFUSES PRICES ASKED FOR TWO STARS

Officials To Shop Carefully for Seasoned Second Sacker.

By Jimmy Jones.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—Another day of sparring with the baseball sharpshooters at the national convention brought a little more traffic in players for the Atlanta baseball club.

Business Manager Earl Mann, who has succeeded in convincing the baseball delegates that the Atlanta club is no longer the "Daddy" Browning of baseball, swung two more deals today and was in the act of closing a third as night drew on here in the Kentucky metropolis.

Mann peddled players Eddie Taylor, third baseman, and Outfielder John Windor (Duck) McKee outright to the Tulsa club of the Texas league, which is managed by the "sneaky" Aiz, the owner of the plant of the old Silver Fox of the Knottville club.

Mann suffered a severe case of fall-on arches before the arduous second day of the meeting was over, having worn a perfectly good pair of soles in pounding the lobby at the Brown hotel.

The day was not without one great disappointment for Mann, the youngest first-class executive at the baseball meeting.

GILL LOST.

Earl thought he had just about closed a deal for Johnny, Gill, the hard-hitting left-handed slugger at Chattanooga Lookouts for the last several seasons. But it develops that the Minneapolis club, which purchased Gill from the Lookouts near the end of last season, had changed its mind about selling him and wanted an exorbitant price.

Mann had hoped to get Gill's big punch to go with that of Henry Oona and Dave Harris, the acquisition announced in The Constitution Thursday morning. The Cracker officials had discussed with French, the light but speedy man of the Knottville club, but the price on French was a little too high also.

The sale of McKee and Taylor brings no great surprise to the Atlanta fans. Taylor, optioned to Syracuse last year, was not needed with the Cracker, which club signed him in the spring of 1932. His averages has been .314, .316 and .307 in the order named.

Baseball executives here generally approved "Sheriff" Dave Harris as a very good young player—but a change in scenery would help him, a local boy never has quite the chance in his home town as that of some outside player and I believe McKee would do better elsewhere."

McKee, former Georgia Tech and Monroe A. & M. star, has hit better than .300 in each of his three years with the Crackers, which club signed him in the spring of 1932. His averages has been .314, .316 and .307 in the order named.

Jackets Leave Tonight for Gainesville To Meet 'Gators

TECH HOPEFUL OF A VICTORY OVER FLORIDA

Squad in Good Shape for Game; Tough Battle Seen.

Georgia Tech's Engineers will depart tonight for Gainesville, Fla., where on the morning they engage the Florida "Gators" in football. This is a game which the Jackets hope to win for their first conference victory.

The team completed their drills yesterday with a dummy practice against Florida players. This afternoon they will work out briefly and then board the train.

The team is in the best condition of the year but lacks any real offense to throw at Florida with the result that Florida is favored to win. Tech will start the same line-up which went against Alabama, losing 40 to 0, but still looking good doing so. It will be the first time this year the Jackets have been able to use the same line-up on consecutive Saturdays.

SQUAD IS READY.
This means all injuries are healed and that Tech will offer a stubborn defense. The defense against passes, one of Tech's chief weaknesses, will be stronger. Work against passes has constituted most of Tech's practice this week.

Both teams are reported in the best of condition for the game. A crowd of 17,000 is expected to see the game. "I hope we can win this one," said Coach Alexander, although he has had little opportunity to develop an offense because of injuries. I guess we will just have to depend on our defense to hold them and try to push over one touchdown in some way or other.

STARTING LINEUP.

The Jackets will start Gibson and Katz at ends; Williams and Dean at tackles, with the possibility that Banks may start and Dean relieve; the two Wilcox boys, Dave and John, at guards, and Preston at center. Shorty Roberts will be at quarterback with Street and Peterson at half-backs and Phillips at fullback.

Florida has a much more formidable offense than Tech. In Chase, at quarter, the Gators have a splendid passer and a great man at bringing back kicks. At least three Florida halfbacks are superior to any the Jackets possess.

Florida's 14-7 victory over Auburn, which defeated Tech, 18 to 6, the week before, establishes the Gators as favorites.

This is the one remaining game on the Tech schedule before the annual game with Georgia which will be played at Athens on December 1, one week from tomorrow.

'Gators Drilled On Pass Defense.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Bent on stopping the Tech passing attack, Coach Dutch Stanley spent most of the practice session this afternoon with his first-string 'Gators on the defensive working against the freshmen running passing signals.

It was only a dummy scrimmage, however, and the freshmen were successful in completing many of their attempts with their leading combination Mayberry to Willie.

While little Kenneth Eppert held down the quarterback position during most of the heavy work in the early part of the week, Coach Stanley reverted to his old combination of Chase and Beckwith at the halves, Wally Brown at quarter and Charlie Stok at full through the practice this afternoon.

During the early part of the season the varsity was on the offense, and while Stanley was pessimistic at the close of the workout, the first-string backs made fair progress against the yearlings with their tricky offensive.

Injuries suffered in the final scrimmage of the week yesterday, coupled with several old wounds, will slow down several of the outstanding players Saturday.

Robert Rickett, chief understudy of Captain Rogers at right end, pulled a muscle in his ankle.

Jack Beckwith, who is proving himself to be the most consistent player on the team, had a bad head cold and a bruised hip. He also has been hampered by an old knee injury. Florida's outstanding passer, Billy Chase, has not completely recovered from a troublesome shoulder wound received before the Auburn game.

THE SPORTLIGHT

The Head Coach's Dream.

(Copyright, 1934, by The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
The head coach lay on his seven-foot cot, and dreamed of the coming game—
But not of a back who slipped and raced to a nation's fame—
Nor yet of an end who grabbed a pass and rushed to the distant goal,
Nor some big tackle or charging guard who opened a 10-foot hole.

The head coach lay on his seven-foot cot, and this is the dream he knew—
Of a back that fumbled eleven times, in spite of a can of glue—
Of sixteen kicks that were blocked and grabbed, as the enemy cracked his line,
And surged on through as the kicker flopped on top of an aching spine.

The head coach turned on his cot and groaned, as the nightmare spilled its woe—
His quarter had called for a short, flat pass—fourth down and eleven to go—
His center was passing along the ground with the touch of a daffy loon,
And his two dumb ends had been offside through most of the afternoon.

The head coach rolled on his cot and sobbed as the final hope took wing—
The score was 10 to 0 now, with the enemy's second string—
Another fumble—a new kick blocked—and his loud voice broke the spell—
"O please, Saint Peter—don't send me down—I've already had my hell."

The Roundup.
Harvard-Yale—A corking scrap—hard, fairly even—with Yale favored.
Army-Notre Dame—Another nectarine full of juice—call it a draw.
Columbia-Syracuse—Close to 50-50—with Syracuse in front.
Stanford-California—Stanford on its way to the Rose Bowl.
Minnesota-Wisconsin—Possibly no romp—but Minnesota just the same.

Princeton-Dartmouth—Princeton steamed up—Dartmouth crippled—Princeton.
Temple-Villanova—Temple—plus Smukler, a runaway horse.
Rice-Texas Christian—Rice to remain unbeaten.

Illinois-Chicago—A close one, depending on Berwanger's knee—Illinois.
Purdue-Indiana—Purdue to finish unwrapped in the conference.
Washington-Washington State—One of the day's hardest games—Washington.

S. M. U.-Baylor—Southern Methodist.
Colgate-Rutgers—Too much speed, power and hocus-pocus for Rutgers.
Centenary-Mississippi—Centenary.
Michigan-Northwestern—Northwestern by a stride.

Nebraska-Missouri—Nebraska in a gap.
Ohio State-Iowa—The Buckeye battle cry has it—Ohio State.
Michigan State-Kansas—Tossing the bouquet to Michigan State.
Georgia-Auburn—Georgia back in the old swing.

Georgia Tech-Florida—A slight lean toward Florida.
Detroit-Marquette—Detroit.
Oklahoma-Oklahoma A. & M.—Oklahoma.
Tulane-Sewanee—Tulane and Simmons.
Lafayette-Lehigh—Lafayette in one of the traditional parties.

Another Testing Day.
Yale carries its new-found laurel wreath into a tiger skin against a Harvard team that hopes to leave this laurel wreath hanging over the Bulldog's left ear.

Stanford, facing California, is making her final stop in the general direction of the Rose Bowl assignment. Minnesota will throw Pug Lund, Kostka, Bevan and 25 or 30 others against a big, coming-on Wisconsin team, with Minnesota shooting for the top.

And in the meantime Army and Notre Dame renew an old-time rivalry in what should be one of the most matched contests of the two combatants have ever known.

As these events are taking place, Pop Warner will send his unbeaten Purple team against Villanova, and Smukler, of Temple, can stand or run with any back of the year.

Alabama takes a rest, waiting for Vanderbilt and Thanksgiving Day.

HACKNEY LOSES TO GERMAN STAR
Hans Kronert, Columbus (Ohio) star, defeated Honey Roy Hackney, long a favorite of the Atlanta wrestling fans, in the feature match at the city auditorium last night in one of the best matches staged here by the light-heavies in some time.

Kronert proved too much for the Honey Roy. The Columbus German started to work on his foe at the very start and took the first fall in something like 15 minutes, with a "crab" hold.

LARRY FRENCH AND LINDSTROM TRADED TO CUBS

Bush, Weaver and Herman Sent to Pittsburgh in Big Deal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today traded Pitchers Guy Bush and Jim Weaver and Outfielder Babe Herman to the Pittsburgh Pirates for Pitcher Larry French and Outfielder Freddie Lindstrom.

Lindstrom who has had much infield experience will go back to playing third base when he joins the Cubs. The deal, the largest so far during the baseball meeting here, had been hanging fire for several days, over the question of whether Weaver was to be traded for French or for a straight-out trade with no cash involved.

Brouns Release Wells to Missions.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns today released Ed Wells, southpaw pitcher, outright to the Holywood club of the Pacific Coast League.

St. Paul traded Pitcher Myles Thomson to Indianapolis for Pitcher Phil Weinert and Shortstop Bud Lee. St. Paul then sent Lee to Dallas in exchange for Charlie Barnabee, a left-handed pitcher.

The Birmingham Southern association club announced Outfielder Nick Eiten and Shortstop Tony Malinosky from Pittsburgh. Toledo got Harry "Hub" Walker from Montreal. Catcher Arvid Veltman goes to Los Angeles from Pittsburgh. Toledo obtained Catcher George Suse from Detroit.

The Fort Worth club of the Texas league today purchased Outfielder Murray Howell of Toronto.

Earnshaw To Quit; Salary Is Reduced.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Evening Ledger today quoted George Earnshaw, Chicago White Sox pitcher, as saying that because he was offered a salary cut in his 1935 contract he is "through with baseball."

"Unless I'm traded," the Ledger quotes Earnshaw as saying, "there is every reason to believe I will not be with Chicago next season. The Sox have sent me a contract calling for a cut in salary."

"It looks like I'm through with baseball," I don't know whether any other team wants me. I don't know if Chicago wants me. So I am assuming I'm through with baseball."

Earnshaw went to the White Sox in Connie Mack's big day of trading a year ago, when the Athletics disposed of Mickey Cochrane, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop.

Smokies Get Help From Red Sox.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox, already with the makings of a strong "farm system" built up today added a working agreement with the Knoxville club of the Southern Association and at the same time announced the release of four players to them.

The four are Clarence Blair, former Cub but with Syracuse of the International last year; a second baseman, Outfielder Max Rosenfeld, also with Syracuse, and Lefty McQuinn, Water No-vack and Third Baseman William Kluch, of the Reading team of the New York-Penn league.

Giants Sell Bell To Kansas City.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The New York Giants today sold Pitcher Hooten Bell to Kansas City, of the American association. The price was not announced.

Reds Purchase Danny MacFayden.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds tonight purchased Pitcher Danny MacFayden from the New York Yankees. MacFayden went to the Yankees from Boston two years ago in a deal which gave the Red Sox two players and a reported cash bonus of $60,000.

Little World Series Is Abolished.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The American association and International league today reached the parting of ways and scrapped the Little World Series, held annually between champions of the two Class AA leagues.

The American association, unable to reach an agreement with the I. L. on post-season playoffs, discussed an intensive association with the Pacific Coast league, but it was decided such a fall series would not be financially worth while because of geographical reasons.

Leading Riders Set For Climb on Sunday
Motorcycle hill climbing, one of the most dangerous and exciting of all sports, will be offered to Atlantans free of charge Sunday afternoon on Northside drive, just beyond Pace's Ferry road.

PURPLE ENDS ROUGH DRILLS FOR TECH HIGH

Defensive Dummy Practice Billed Today for Both Teams.

With the rough work over Boys' High and Tech High will engage in long dummy defensive drills this afternoon in preparation for their city championship game Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park.

Boys' High finished its heavy work Thursday at the ball park behind closed gates, with Tech High completing a light scrimmage at Piedmont park.

The Purple coaches, Shorty Doyal, Dickie Butler and Dwight Keith, appeared satisfied with their preparations, and only George Gerakitis, the big halfback, is on the ailing list and unable to play. The offensive and defensive scrimmages at Ponce de Leon have been good and there is plenty of fight and spirit among the youngsters.

SMITHIES INJURED.
There is a decided difference in the spirit at Tech High and Jack Newlands, Walt Williams, Ray Barnes, Woodrow Tucker and Russell Tarrant on the ailing list and not able to give their best services. Newlands, Williams, Barnes and Tarrant will play at least part of the game.

Coaches Gabe Tolbert, Tom Alexander and Hub Davis are for from satisfied with the team's showing in scrimmages this week.

There has been no complaint with the Smithies due all season and it has been the only ray of sunshine in an otherwise gloomy sky.

MORE TROUBLE.
The backfield has given considerable trouble. It failed to function for several games and then some differences appeared. And when those differences were settled, Barnes, Newlands and Tucker, a reserve back, suffered injuries.

A backfield of Herbert Schutte, Doyal, Butler, Frank Harrison and Pete Tinsley is most likely at present. Indications point to one of the largest crowds of the season, with the advance ticket sale far above previous games. Tickets can be purchased at Trammell Scott's, Park-Chambers and at Marshall & Reynolds.

Ruffed Grouse Coming Back To Georgia
"The ruffed grouse, king of all game birds, is coming back in north Georgia due to protection given across a stretch of years," said State Game and Fish Commissioner Zack Cravey, last night at a delightful informal dinner with Paul MacQuiston as host.

Cravey, discussing the Georgia situation, declared the outlook to be encouraging. "If we can keep going the way we have," he said, "we will have the greatest game state in the world. The grouse and quail of north Georgia where there is also deer; the turkey and deer of south Georgia, offer great sport."

"The hunters are co-operating better than before. I am trying to make our warden friends of the hunters and not enemies," he said.

Most unusual is the fishing news from Lake Toccoa, where a large number of muskellunge, some weighing as much as 13 pounds, have been caught. The theory is that these game fish were brought to some small lake in the neighborhood some years ago, being imported from the north where they would not come over of their own accord, but were taken to Lake Toccoa where they have increased in size and number.

Cravey declared he still had hopes of having a fishing license law passed, it being unfair for the hunter to carry the entire financial burden of restocking streams in the state.

A number of reels of quail, turkey and rabbit hunting in Maryland, under the direction of the game department of the state, were shown.

A group of trained bear cubs, who entertained most drinking their bottles of milk, were also on the program.

2 Gamecock Cagers Accept Pro Posts
COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Two of the University of South Carolina's Southern Conference championship basketball team of 1933 departed unannounced for Texas at 2 a. m. today, taking with them a large portion of the Gamecock's prospects of climbing back to a circuit line in 1935.

Teammates of Freddie and Bennie Tompkins, South Carolina seniors, said the pair had accepted positions with an oil company at Tyler, Texas, which called for them to play basketball and share a percentage of gate receipts.

G. M. A. WILL MEET MARIST TONIGHT

By Roy White.

G. M. A. and Marist College will close their night football schedules at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park in the feature game of the day. Russell High, a leading contender for the North Georgia Interscholastic conference crown, will play Marietta High, another N. G. I. C. member, at 2 o'clock this afternoon at East Point. Decatur Journeys to Columbus and Commercial plays at Druid Hills in the other afternoon games.

Particular interest will be centered about the Marist-G. M. A. affair as it will be the last night game of the season and one in which both teams are fast reaching a peak.

Marist College won the N. G. I. C. title last year for the first time and with a majority of the team returned, Coach Van Houten stepped up into higher class and scheduled games with Tech High, Boys' High, Monroe and G. M. A., all members of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association. The Ivy street cadets, although beaten by Tech High, Boys' High and Monroe, gave the larger teams a great scrap and scored on all except Tech High.

G. M. A. with Bud Harris, a former

Bulldogs Guests At Warm Springs

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Members of the Georgia football squad, coaches, managers and an official party are to be guests at supper in Georgia Hall at Warm Springs Saturday night following the Georgia-Auburn grid game in Columbus, Dean H. J. Stegeman announced today.

President Roosevelt probably will be present at the supper or may meet the members of the Georgia party later at the Warm Springs Foundation.

Bowdon College coach in charge and installing a new system, was slow to get started losing to Commercial, Monroe, Boys' High and Richmond Academy. The team played well against Russell, Central, Stephens County and Benedictine College and is in better condition now than at any time this season.

It is a non-association game with no title at stake, and it is nearing the

'Dizzy' Demands $25,000 for '35

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Jerome "Dizzy" Dean said tonight he would hold out for a one-year contract with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals at $25,000, "not one cent over or under."

Branch Rickey, of the Cardinals, tried, without results, to get Dean to talk contract terms today, who came here on business connected with his "outside activities," appeared to be waiting for an announcement that Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil man, had completed a deal to buy the Cardinals.

Dean said he didn't know what contract price his brother Paul would ask.

MOREHOUSE, FISK BATTLE TODAY

Fisk University, of Nashville, Tenn., and Morehouse College, of Atlanta, will go into grips on the Fisk Park, in their annual battle at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Traditional rivalry built around many years of competitive athletics between the two schools, makes the conflict the outstanding game of the Morehouse schedule, and a large crowd of both white and colored fans is expected to witness this scrap.

Intensive preparation for this game has been underway at the Fisk camp all week and the Morehouse eleven will be seeking revenge over the Tennesseans who defeated them last year in Nashville in the biggest upset of the year. Coach Ink Williams' team came out of the Clark University game with no major injuries and will be able to start his full strength against the invaders.

The miraculous comeback of the Morehouse team after getting away to a bad start establishes the Tigers as the favorite. Morehouse dropped two straight games at the opening of the season then defeated Alabama State and Knoxville College on consecutive week-ends and last Saturday tied a 32-13 score in the boys' game, and a 32-23 count in the girls' contest.

The largest crowd of the season packed the local gymnasium to see the games, both of which were hard fought throughout.

Sproull, of Plains, was high scorer in the boys' contest with 11 points, while Jennings, also of Plains, copied scoring honors in the girls' affair, with 15 markers.

Plains High Cagers Beat Preston Twice
PLAINS, Ga., Nov. 22.—Preston High fell before the charge of two powerful Plains High teams here last night and emerged on the short end of a 32-13 score in the boys' game, and a 32-23 count in the girls' contest.

The greatest crowd of the season packed the local gymnasium to see the games, both of which were hard fought throughout.

Sproull, of Plains, was high scorer in the boys' contest with 11 points, while Jennings, also of Plains, copied scoring honors in the girls' affair, with 15 markers.

MANUFACTURER RAPS PRESENT AIR LAWS

Continuation of Legislation
Will Ruin Industry, He Tells Policy Body.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Continuation of existing legislation governing air transport and aircraft manufacturing will bring ruin to the industry, J. K. Kindelberger, president of the General Aviation Corporation, a subsidiary of North American Aviation, Inc., declared today in testimony before the federal aviation commission.

"There is no question," said Mr. Kindelberger, "the existing legislation governing air transport and aircraft manufacturing will result in the complete ruin of these industries unless drastic changes are effected. This statement is made advisedly and is based upon 17 years of engineering and manufacturing experience and close association with the air transport industry. It is the hope of these industries that the federal aviation commission will recognize the defects in the present laws and recommend corrective legislation."

Two other witnesses appeared before the commission in executive session today to present broad recommendations for the development of the industry—Leighton W. Rogers, executive vice president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, and Major James H. Doolittle, the well-known flyer.

Recommendations Made.
In behalf of the industry, Mr. Rogers presented two specific recommendations bearing on aircraft export policy:

1. Adoption by the government of a definite and clearly-stated policy of encouragement to the export of aeronautical products.

2. Resumption by the department of commerce of its former policy of assisting in the promotion of the sales abroad of aeronautical products through the activities of its Washington organization and its world-wide field service, augmented, if necessary, by special aeronautical representatives sent to Europe, South America and the far east.

Stressing the need for government aid in maintaining the position gained by American aircraft producers in the export market, Mr. Rogers told the commission:

"It is an inescapable fact that since the World War, on the occasion when the United States aviation industry has been in the lead and has succeeded in obtaining its share of foreign trade in the face of European competition, this country has been invaded by foreign aeronautical agents. They come with two aims.

"First to learn as much as they can about our products and our industry. Second, to bring all the influence they can to bear to discredit them in foreign markets. They attempt the second aim by instituting patent suits, by aiding pacifist organizations, by helping whatever disgruntled American individuals or organizations they can find, by criticizing American aviation products in magazine articles, in the press, over the radio, and before committees of congress.

"A favorite method is to get their criticisms in the Congressional Record because copies of this can be sent to foreign countries which may be considering the purchase of United States equipment as 'official' indication that even the United States government thinks European equipment is better than American. The fact that Europe is buying United States equipment as never before should be, but often is not, thought of in this connection as sufficient refutation. Specific instances of the successful use of these tactics on the part of aliens in the United States are available.

"This kind of competition, the United States aviation industry believes, should be stopped."

A broader and more comprehensive use of the new air mass analysis for weather forecasting was urged upon the commission by Major Doolittle, who also emphasized the need for increased appropriations for new scientific weather data as recommended by the Baker board.

Major Doolittle was questioned by members of the commission on rapid advances made by research engineers in developing superior types of lubricating oils for aircraft engines.

TWO GEORGIA AREAS SEEK MILK LICENSES
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Atlanta and Savannah (Ga.) milk areas are among 50 such areas throughout the country which originally requested licenses from the agricultural adjustment administration, it was disclosed here today by Administrator Chester Davis.

In the Atlanta area, the Georgia milk producers' confederation, the Co-operative Raw Milk Association, Milk Producers' Co-operative Association and the Georgia Pure Milk League accepted AAA licenses December 1, of this year. In the Savannah area, the Better Milk Co-operative League's license became effective August 16, 1934.

Data in the dairy section AAA indicate that a total of 50 different producers' co-operative associations engaged in selling milk or bargaining for the sale of milk for their members have acted as sponsors and have made requests for the existing 46 federal fluid milk licenses, it was said.

SOUTHEAST NRA HEADS
MEET HERE MONDAY

State NRA compliance directors, executive assistants and labor compliance officers of six southeastern states will meet in Atlanta in a three-day conference, beginning Monday, at the Piedmont hotel. Compliance problems and possible solutions will be discussed.

John Swope, chief of the field branch of NRA, and John Ward, administration assistant to the compliance director, both of Washington, will conduct the conference. Arrangements for the meeting were made by W. L. Mitchell, state compliance director. D. B. Lasseter, labor compliance officer of Georgia, and Mr. Mitchell will represent Georgia at the meeting.

The six southeastern states to be represented are Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Peanut Hams

19¢

Swift's Peanut Hams come from Georgia-grown, peanut-fattened hogs. This gives them that distinctive mild, sweet flavor found in no other hams. If you want GENUINE Georgia Peanut Ham look for this name stamped on each ham: SWIFT'S GEORGIA PEANUT BRAND HAMS.
